Remail: Writing emails
No matter your profession or industry, email probably makes up some part of your job.

Managing your inbox can be a pretty tedious time-suck, but tools like Remail might help you get through emails more efficiently.

With this Google extension for Gmail, you specify if you want to send a positive or negative response to an email, and it'll draft a message for you in the style and tone of the conversation. You can also customize a response by summarizing what you want to say in a few words, and Remail will generate a full response based on your input. Whatever you ask for, you'll get multiple draft options to choose from.

<https://remail.ai/> > this AI tool will write complete responses to emails based on your selection of "quick responses"

Paid version also lets you decide on the tone of your reply (brief, formal, funny, friendly etc)

Day 24 of #100DaysOfAI

Today, I got a chance to play with a tool called Remail. Remail takes away the overthinking when it comes to email responses. Good or bad, Remail will generate a response you can use with just a click. You can also generate a quick summary if you're stuck on what to write.

When I think about Remail and all the other tools used in the challenge, most companies will not allow these tools behind the firewall. However, a small company or a startup may have a considerable advantage in using AI.

👋 I'm going on vacation this weekend. And I'm already looking forward to my e-mail inbox when I get back. ☺️

There's no sarcasm in that sentence, really, because I got to know app.remail.ai today at #100daysOfAI.

It's an add-on that can be integrated into popular mail programs and gives #AI-assisted replies to emails. Not only with "Thanks for your mail, I'll read it when I come back...", #RemailAI understands the received mail, and can also link its received content with the information I have provided in advance (e.g. FAQs, Websites or PDFs) and prepare both positive and negative answers.

All I then have to do is press send. I can do that from the beach bar too... See you soon!

What other #productivity tools do you rely on to manage your inbox while you're away from work?
