Francesco Duina,2014-02-12 We celebrate talk about and worry a great deal about transitions in life Going to college having a first child losing a job and retiring constitute just a few of the pivotal moments in the lives of many Sociologists and psychologists have devoted considerable attention to life transitions Yet we know very little about whether there exists a common thread to our understandings of life transitions in general How do journalists leading politicians sport icons bestselling authors government agencies Hallmark cards popular TV shows and other voices of popular culture talk about transitions in life Do these voices provide a coherent picture of how we make sense of life transitions In this book Francesco

Duina shows how the dominant American discourse articulates two basic approaches to transitions in life The first approach depicts transitions as exciting individualistic opportunities for new beginnings the past is cast aside the future is wide open and the self has the opportunity to recreate itself anew The second paints transitions as having to do with continuity our connections to others and the life cycle with an emphasis on acceptance and adaptation Though contrasting the two approaches ultimately complement each other Their analysis reveals a great deal about American culture and society and will be of great interest to students of the life course and the sociology of culture

Perspectives on Social Sustainability and Interior Architecture Dianne Smith,Marina Lommerse,Priya Metcalfe,2014-04-30 This book argues that interior architects have a responsibility to practice their profession in collaborative ways that address the needs of communities and of to be the agents of social justice and cultural heritage The book is divided into three sections based on three pivotal themes community engagement social justice and cultural heritage Each section has chapters that put forward the principles of these themes leading into a variety of fascinating case studies that illustrate how socially sustainable design is implemented in diverse communities across the world The second section includes four concise case studies of community housing issues including remote area indigenous housing and housing for the homeless The third section offers two extensively researched essays on design and cultural heritage a case study of the development of a redundant industrial site and a historical study of gendered domestic interiors The book appeals to a wider audience than the design community alone and challenges mainstream interior design interior architecture practitioners nationally and internationally to take a leading role in the field of socially responsible design The issues raised by the authors are relevant for individuals communities government and non government organisations professionals and students In the twenty first century we seem to have entered into a new world of knowledge discovery where many of the most exciting insights come not from the authority of a traditional discipline but from the dialogue that happens at the hubs and intersections of thought the arenas where different disciplines and approaches different schools and habits of thinking come together to collaborate and contend This collection is a good example of this and I hope the book will be widely read and its lessons learned and applied Tim Costello Officer of the Order of Australia Chief Executive World Vision Australia
