fact or topic per slip and arrange as desired In the late eighteenth century the card catalog became the librarian's answer to the threat of information overload Then at the turn of the twentieth century business adopted the technology of the card catalog as a bookkeeping tool Krajewski explores this conceptual development and casts the card file as a universal paper machine that accomplishes the basic operations of Turing's universal discrete machine storing processing and transferring data In telling his story Krajewski takes the reader on a number of illuminating detours telling us for example that the card catalog and the numbered street address emerged at the same time in the same city Vienna and that Harvard University's home grown cataloging system grew out of a librarian's laziness and that Melvil Dewey originator of the Dewey Decimal System helped bring about the technology transfer of card files to business Parliamentary Papers Great Britain.
