Cyberteaching Instructional Technology On The Modern Campus:

Cyberteaching Morriss Henry Partee, 2002 The advances in communication technology over the past few years offer an unparalleled opportunity for almost every dedicated teacher to reach students in new and powerful ways The necessary hardware to create a classroom in cyberspace probably sits on the instructor's desk right now a computer connected to a network Moreover increasingly user friendly software insures that the instructor does not need sophisticated technical skills in order to embrace these innovative pedagogical techniques The efficiency of electronic communication allows average teachers to become good and good teachers to become superb Cyberteaching addresses the vast numbers of non technically oriented faculty and administrators in institutions of public and especially higher education The Evolution of Instructional Technology Joseph O. Esin, 2011-10-17 Part I of the book notes that instructors apprehension is directly related to inadequate preparation which contributes to their inability to apply technology to the educational process The author offers a comprehensive outline and solutions on how to overcome instructors apprehension through the implementation of well conceived professional technology training program that will allow instructors to learn at a pace that is challenging but achievable Part II of the book describes major trends in academic settings and the proposal that can help to bridge the gap between higher education administrators and wage increases for academic instructors The apparent trend can be avoided through the implementation of an Academic Salary Review Council ASRC to assist in determining the boundary of administrators and instructors wage increases and benefits based on academic rank and years of teaching experience In addition the book recommends a smooth and systematic form of departure from the textbook format to the instructional use of technology to guide and deliver instruction E-Learning 2.0 Technologies and Web Applications in Higher Education
