Cyd Charisse Jean-Claude Missiaen,1978 Dying Swans and Madmen Adrienne L. McLean,2008-02-19 From mid twentieth century films such as Grand Hotel Waterloo Bridge and The Red Shoes to recent box office hits including Billy Elliot Save the Last Dance and The Company ballet has found its way time and again onto the silver screen and into the hearts of many otherwise unlikely audiences In Dying Swans and Madmen Adrienne L McLean explores the curious pairing of classical and contemporary art and entertainment high culture and popular culture to reveal the ambivalent place that this art form occupies in American life Drawing on examples that range from musicals to tragic melodramas she shows how commercial films have produced an image of ballet and its artists that is associated both with joy fulfillment fame and power and with sexual and mental perversity melancholy and death Although ballet is still received by many with a lack of interest or outright suspicion McLean argues that these attitudes as well as ballet s popularity and its acceptability as a way of life and a profession have often depended on what audiences first learned about it from the movies Encyclopedia of French Film Directors Philippe Rège,2009-12-11 Cinema has been long associated with France dating back to 1895 when Louis and Auguste Lumi_re screened their works the first public viewing of films anywhere Early silent pioneers Georges Méliès Alice Guy Blaché and others followed in the footsteps of the Lumi_re brothers and the tradition of important filmmaking continued throughout the 20th century and beyond In Encyclopedia of French Film Directors Philippe Rège identifies every French director who has made at least one feature film since 1895 From undisputed masters to obscure one timers nearly 3 000 directors are cited here including at least 200 filmmakers not mentioned in similar books published in France Each director s entry contains a brief biographical summary including dates and places of birth and death information on the individual s education and professional training and other pertinent details such as real names when the filmmaker uses a pseudonym The entries also provide complete filmographies including credits for feature films shorts documentaries and television work Some of the most important names in the history of film can be found in this encyclopedia from masters of the Golden Age Jean Renoir and René Clair to French New Wave artists such as François Truffaut and Jean Luc Godard
