Maggie Oman Shannon's Prayers for Healing Have Hope Maggie Oman Shannon, 2021-04-13 Hope The very word became world changing in 2008 as we saw a man who many considered to be an unlikely presidential candidate ride to victory on his message of hope Indeed hope which perhaps to some once seemed a soft somewhat wishy washy quality is being redefined by millions as a powerful dynamic force in a world that demands the heart felt commitment of its inhabitants in order to even survive In the twenty first century the need for hope for the intention commitment and action that hope inspires is more compelling and crucial than ever before as we collectively navigate such unforeseen challenges as a global pandemic that has effectively stopped the busyness of life as we have known it Fortunately history offers us a treasury of hope through the words of those who have passed before us and through events that have proven that hope can and will prevail What we need is portable evidence of that a handy inspirational resource that can remind us of the power of hope and the changes that hope can effect Hope is a topic that people of both sexes all ages all races and all faith traditions not only find of interest but also feed upon and hope particularly now since it has been branded into our consciousness internationally with President Obama's iconic summoning of it will continue to be a subject area that is actively explored and embraced While there are a number of anthologies available which address hope all of them more narrow in scope falling within the Christian publishing or recovery category no book until now has attempted to provide an inclusive collection that provides 365 inspirational readings referencing actual historical events that have been a result of and a source of hope Without being saccharine or simplistic this volume will offer its readers a daily gift of hope each selection will actually include the word hope drawing on the wisdom of every era every major faith tradition and the important voices of those who have shaped a hope filled future themselves Prayers for Priest and People, the Parish and the Home John Wright, 1899
