Daily Lifelines For Teens Preteens T:

Life Lines Jean Bacon, 1997-01-02 Asian Indians figure prominently among the educated middle class subset of contemporary immigrants. They move quickly into residences, jobs, and lifestyles that provide little opportunity with fellow migrants, yet they continue to see themselves as a distinctive community within contemporary American society. In Life Lines, Bacon chronicles the creation of a community of Indian-born parents and their children living in the Chicago metropolitan area, bound by neither geographic proximity nor institutional ties, and explores the processes through which ethnic identity is transmitted to the next generation. Bacon's study centers upon the engrossing portraits of five immigrant families, each one a complex tapestry woven from the distinctive voices of its family members. Both extensive field work among community organizations and analyses of ethnic media help Bacon expose the complicated interplay between the private social interactions of family life and the stylized rhetoric of Indianness that permeates public life. This inventive analysis suggests that the process of assimilation which these families undergo parallels the assimilation process experienced by anyone who conceives of him or herself as a member of a distinctive community in search of a place in American society. Life Lines

Rose Ramsay, Bill Ramsay, 2018-04-07 This is the story of two lives and a marriage that span a period of great changes in the way we live. Rose's family home on a small farm in East Tennessee didn't have electricity until she was in her teens. Bill was born in Bethlehem, Pennsylvania, where his father was a steelworker when not unemployed, who became a labor leader. Indoor plumbing was introduced to their homes when they were youngsters. Telephones, radios, and cars were novelties. They experienced and participated in improvements in medicine, technology, and communications. They also experienced upheavals in civil rights and race relations, family life patterns, and even basic values. Their story, memories, and reflections represent happy, productive, and blessed lives in contrast to the superficial, hollow, and broken lives featured on the news every day. While this book is primarily a record of one family, it includes observations and insights about life, not particular limited to one family's experience. A life span of eighty-six years, including a marriage of sixty-five years, has seen many changes. Bill and Rose have reflected on the changes that have affected their lives and that they have seen. What changes have been for the better? Where have we gone wrong? Looking back from the distance of age gives a perspective to culture and values. Their reflections on the civil rights struggle and race relations, on the way women experience childbirth and view their roles, on changing family values, on faith, and on what is important in life, are thoughtful commentaries. Reflections are recorded after each section of the book, placing the perspective of age in the context of life experience. Navy Lifeline, 1982
