Cyberghetto or Cybertopia? Bosah Ebo, 1998-07-28 Computer mediated communication and cyberculture are dramatically changing the nature of social relationships Whether cyberspace will simply retain vestiges of traditional communities with hierarchical social links and class structured relationships or create new egalitarian social networks remains an open question The chapters in this volume examine the issue of social justice on the Internet by using a variety of methodological and theoretical perspectives Political scientists sociologists and communications and information systems scholars address issues of race class and gender on the Internet in chapters that do not assume any specialized training in computer technology

Online Incivility and Public Debate Gina Masullo Chen, 2017-06-25 This book investigates what influence online incivility through user generated comments on news websites has on public debate Built on the premise that public discussions about important topics are vital to a healthy democracy the book analyzes 3 508 online comments in order to understand what factors in comments make them more susceptible to incivility defined as nasty remarks rife with profanity It also examines comments for attributes of deliberation which are discussions across difference supported by evidence and rational arguments Using an experiment the book shows that uncivil comments jumpstart a chain reaction leading first to negative emotion and then to greater intention to get politically involved Overall Online Incivility and Public Debate Nasty Talk argues that while incivility mars online debate it may also spark interest in important topics and allow for positive deliberative moments of quality discussion

Unfinished Business Maurice B. Wheeler, 2005 Unfinished Business points to all of the spokes on the wheel of library and information science education from racial issues in the financial aid process to the impact of technology on LIS students of color and from the recruitment of minority students to faculty development Beyond showing where LIS programs have fallen short the contributors to this volume reinvigorate the discourse regarding the future Unfinished Business is a catalyst for hope and strength in meeting the challenges of fully realizing the promise of the Brown v Board of Education decision

BOOK JACKET

The Theory and Criticism of Virtual Texts Lory Hawkes, Joe Law, Christina Murphy, 2000-11-30 Virtual texts have emerged within the realm of the Internet as the predominant means of global communication As both technological and cultural artifacts they embody and challenge cultural assumptions and invite new ways of conceptualizing knowledge community identity and meaning But despite the pervasiveness of the Internet in nearly all aspects of contemporary life no single resource has cataloged the ways in which numerous disciplines have investigated and critiqued virtual texts This bibliography includes more than 1500 annotated entries for books articles dissertations and electronic resources on virtual texts published between 1988 and 1999 Because of the multiple contexts in which virtual texts are studied the bibliography addresses virtual communication across a broad range of disciplines and philosophies It encompasses studies of the historical development of virtual texts investigations of the many interdisciplinary applications of virtual texts and discussions of such legal issues as privacy and intellectual phenomenon of technocultural Hindu nationalism or the use of the internet by global Indian communities for the promotion of Hindu nationalist ideologies Since the introduction of Western science and technology under colonial rule in the eighteenth century science and technology have been used as instruments of transforming Indian society Scientific and technological expertise have been authorized as essential attributes of a modern Indian selfhood And the possessors of technological skills have historically been vested with the authority to speak for the nation The associations between technology and nationalism have condensed in ideas about self and other they have been incorporated in imaginings of the state and the nation and they have materialized as claims about identity community and society In the present historical moment this relationship manifests itself in one form as an online Hindu nationalism that combines cultural majoritarian claims with technological triumphalism Technocultural Hindu nationalism yokes together the core proposition of Hindu nationalist doctrine the idea that India is a Hindu nation and that religious minorities are outsiders to it with arguments about the imminent rise of Hindu India as a technological superpower in the global capitalist economy of the twenty first century Additionally while technocultural Hindu nationalism is obsessed with Western technology it also defines itself in strategic respects in opposition to Western civilization On Hindu nationalist websites this apparent paradox is resolved through the construction of a narrative where Hinduism is defined as the historical and philosophical foundation of global capitalist modernity itself and Hindus are presented as the natural heirs to that heritage This book locates these and other characteristics of Hindu nationalist identity politics in cyberspace with reference to the relationship between technology and nationalism in India from the period of British colonial rule in the mid eighteenth century to the present era of an economically and technologically interconnected world This book argues that technocultural Hindu nationalism needs to be understood in terms of the general dynamic of technology and nationalism with its continuities and discontinuities through the period of colonial rule till Indian independence in 1947 the period of Nehruvian nationalism with its emphasis on technological development in a socialist framework and the current post 1991 context following the liberalization of the Indian economy which accords pride of place to information technology and the internet This book also proposes that the particularities of technocultural Hindu nationalism need at the same time to be assessed with reference to the modalities of online communication Toward this end the book takes shape as an interdisciplinary endeavor combining qualitative and quantitative research methodologies and drawing on historical scholarship about South Asia social and cultural theory and the sociology of new media specifically the field of internet studies Technology and Nationalism in India is an important book for all in communication Internet studies South Asian studies and postcolonial studies

Ethnic Media in America:: Building a system of their own Guy T. Meiss,Alice A. Tait,2004      Marriages and Families Karen Seccombe,Rebecca L. Warner,2004 In this fresh more structural alternative to other texts for the marriage and family course Seccombe and Warner provide a comprehensive look at close relationships and the family in just 15 chapters Examining close relationships and families by placing them in social context the authors offer a unique emphasis on the structural and relational aspects of the family with a focus on family resilience The text weaves together a macro view social structural analysis of close relationships with the macro an individualist view The authors demonstrate the interaction of theory and methodology in family studies in Chapter 2 and blend cutting edge research and practical applications throughout Among the highlights of this first edition are the exceptionally thorough exploration of the topics of singlehood and cohabitation in Chapter 7 and the unique six chapter core 8 13 that focuses on all aspects of parenthood and the challenges and crises that families face today The authors emphasis on family resilience and how families can be strengthened is reflected in the Constructing Strong Families boxes that appear throughout the text These features encourage students to apply groundbreaking research on what makes a family strong to their own families and in the concluding chapter Looking Ahead Helping Families Flourish which examines the factors that successful families regardless of ethnicity culture or social class consistently exhibit

Transnational Black Studies Lisa Brock, Robin D. G. Kelley, Karen Sotiropoulos, 2003 From its inception black studies has been transnational Pioneering intellectuals such as W E B Du Bois George Washington Williams Anna Julia Cooper Nicolas Guillen C L R James Oliver Cox and Zora Neale Hurston shared a transnational sensibility shaped by the antiracist and anti imperialist politics of the nineteenth and twentieth centuries In recent years however much scholarship regarding blackness has been presented under the rubric of pan Africanism or the African diaspora terms that imply an inquiry solely into what it means to be of Africa Increasingly in an era of globalization and postcolonialism such terms have become insufficient for capturing what it means to be black in a global context Transnational black studies an interdisciplinary arena of knowledge rooted in political struggle has reemerged to rectify this discursive insufficiency in contemporary scholarship The essays interviews and reviews in this special issue of Radical History Review represent the best of the new of this very old tradition of transnational black studies One contributor explores how racial citizenship the idea of belonging and solidarity across the black world developed as a result of knowledge formed out of transnational linkages is employed by Cubans of color fighting against racial discrimination in public spaces in Havana Another by outlining a research agenda for the study of African slavery in the Middle East and South Asia reminds us that the Africa diaspora is global In a discussion of a paradigm shift from the national to the global yet another author makes a singular contribution to this collection by locating new spaces for identity formation in transit Contributors Martha Biondi Anthony Bogues Ashley Dawson James Early Mary F E Ebeling Kevin Gaines Van Gosse Frank A Guridy Joseph E Harris Douglas M Haynes Joseph Heathcott Harvey Neptune Michelle Stephens
