Cypreb Hills The Land And Its People:

The Cypress Hills Walter Hildebrandt, Brian Hubner, 1994 Get them out was a Canadian government policy to remove Aboriginal Peoples from the Cypress Hills area according to Nekaneet Band Elder Gordon Oakes in this book s foreword Walter Hildebrandt and Brian Hubner explain why the Cypress Hills a 2 600 square kilometre plateau straddling the Alberta Saskatchewan US border were an important gathering place for Aboriginal Peoples for thousands of years and why the Canadian government did not want them there The Indians and the M tis came because game and lodge pole pine were plentiful Buffalo abounded and the authors describe all aspects of the buffalo hunt from spiritual preparation to the final kill Fur traders and wolfers came too mostly from Montana and with them clashes between the different worlds leading to the 1873 Cypress Hills massacre That event brought the North West Mounted Police and led to the building of Fort Walsh in the Hills It was in the Hills that Chief Sitting Bull and the Dakotas sought refuge after defeating Custer at the Battle of Little Big Horn While the NWMP worked to maintain peace they also helped disperse Aboriginal Peoples from the area As a result today there is only one Indian Reserve in the Cypress Hills area Earth Into Property Tony Hall, 2010 A broad exploration of the colonial roots of global capitalism and the worldwide quest of Indigenous people for liberation through Indian Claims Commission Proceedings Canada. Indian Claims Commission (1991-),2008 decolonization In Palliser's Triangle Barry Potyondi, 1995 Author Barry Potyondi offers a detailed look at the relationship between people and the evolving prairie environment This is a portrait of how westerners deliberately changed the grasslands of southwestern Saskatchewan and how it in turn helped to shape their lives Amongst other questions Potyondi asks is should the Grasslands have been farmed at all Rediscovering the First Nations of Canada John W. Friesen, 1997 Overview of the history lifestyles and spirituality of native races of major regions of Canada Affective Landscapes in Literature, Art and Everyday Life Christine Berberich, Neil Campbell, 2016-03-09 Bringing together a diverse group of scholars representing the fields of cultural and literary studies cultural politics and history creative writing and photography this collection examines the different ways in which human beings respond to debate and interact with landscape How do we feel sense know cherish memorise imagine dream desire or even fear landscape What are the specific qualities of experience that we can locate in the spaces in and through which we live While the essays most often begin with the broadly literary the memoir the travelogue the novel poetry the contributors approach the topic in diverse and innovative ways The collection is divided into five sections Peripheral Cultures dealing with dislocation and imagined landscapes Memory and Mobility concerning the road as the scene of trauma and movement Suburbs and Estates contrasting American and English spaces Literature and Place foregrounding the fluidity of the fictional and the real and the human and nonhuman and finally Sensescapes tracing the sensory response to landscape Taken together the essays interrogate important issues about how we live now and might live in the future Canadian Book Review Annual ,1999 The Regional Geography of Canada Robert M. Bone, 2005 The Regional Geography of Canada divides Canada into six geographic regions Ontario Quebec British Columbia Western Canada Atlantic Canada and the Territorial North Each region has a particular regional geography history population and a unique location These factors have determined each region s character set the direction for its development and created a sense of place In examining these themes this text underscores the dynamic nature of Canada's regional geography Dictionary Patrick Fairbairn, 1886 The Dynamics of Native Politics Joe Sawchuk, 1998 Historically Aboriginal People have had little influence on the development of Native policy from within government As a result national provincial and regional Native political organizations have developed to lobby government on Native Peoples issues Joe Sawchuk defines the various native groups in Canada and examines the origins of the organizations which represent them He examines the structure of the organizations their relationship with government and the way in which power is consolidated within the organizations themselves Many non Native structures pervade Native and especially Metis political organizations Using examples from his experience as director of land claims for the Metis Association of Alberta in the early 1980 s Sawchuk illustrates how Aboriginal organizations set their political agendas and how federal and provincial funding and internal politics influence those agendas The record of Native political organizations in Canada has been impressive The questions now are how their structures affect their ability to represent an Aboriginal point of view whether government funding blunts their effectiveness and how decreases in funding might affect them in the future The Louis Bromfield Trilogy Louis Modern Cemetery ,1911 The Northeastern Reporter, 1902 Includes the decisions of the Supreme Bromfield, 1926 Courts of Massachusetts Ohio Indiana and Illinois and Court of Appeals of New York May July 1891 Mar Apr 1936 Appellate Court of Indiana Dec 1926 Feb 1927 Mar Apr 1936 Courts of Appeals of Ohio Report on Irrigation Surveys and The Prairies Lost and Found Leonard B. Kuffert, 2007 We lose and find all the time We can forget Inspections ,1920 apprehend or comprehend our surroundings several times each day Both losing and finding forgetting and rediscovering the natural and human traces on the prairies might seem like an impossibility Have we not recorded our impressions and images of prairie life faithfully Are we not standing on the shoulders of prairie giants One kind of prairie grain elevators have been disappearing from the North American prairies for about a generation and yet they have become I would argue even more vividly than in the days before they started to disappear an iconic symbol of a place which is less and less like its imagined past Our memories both individual and collective adjust to such absences by canonizing vanishing saints before it really is too late We lose the thing and find we like to think its essence We remember artistic renderings of prairie people landscapes and stories reading Margaret Laurence's novels or W L Morton's history but we cannot reproduce the pictures and words at will We know the countours of their labours just the same We forget or at least under advertise the fast that the Prairie however it might be divided by provincial or international borders is also an urban place We think less often of the fact that we have a transantional prairies in which an awareness of divergent national pasts and presents is necessary To acknowledge these complexities is to know to reclaim and indeed to find the prairies BOOK JACKET Report on Irrigation Surveys and Inspections 1918-19 Canada. Reclamation Service, 1920 Severing the Ties that Bind Katherine Pettipas, 1994-10-28 Religious ceremonies were an inseparable part of Aboriginal traditional life reinforcing social economic and political values However missionaries and government officials with ethnocentric attitudes of cultural superiority decreed that Native dances and ceremonies were immoral or un Christian and an impediment to the integration of the Native population into Canadian society Beginning in 1885 the Department of Indian Affairs implemented a series of amendments to the Canadian Indian Act designed to eliminate traditional forms of religious expression and customs such as the Sun Dance the Midewiwin the Sweat Lodge and giveaway ceremonies However the amendments were only partially effective Aboriginal resistance to the laws took many forms community leaders challenged the legitimacy of the terms and the manner in which the regulations were implemented and they altered their ceremonies the times and locations the practices in an attempt both to avoid detection and to placate the agents who enforced the law Katherine Pettipas views the amendments as part of official support for the destruction of indigenous cultural systems She presents a critical analysis of the administrative policies and considers the effects of government suppression of traditional religious activities on the whole spectrum of Aboriginal life focussing on the experiences of the Plains Cree from the mid 1880s to 1951 when the regulations pertaining to religious practices were removed from the Act She shows how the destructive effects of the legislation are still felt in Aboriginal communities today and offers insight into current issues of Aboriginal spirituality including access to and use of religious objects held in museum repositories protection of sacred lands and sites and the right to indigenous religious practices in prison Library of the World's Best Literature, Ancient and Modern Charles Dudley Warner, Hamilton Wright Mabie, Lucia Isabella Gilbert Runkle, George Henry Warner, 1902 Correct English ,1929 Views from Fort Battleford Walter Hildebrandt, University of Regina. Canadian Plains Research Center, 1994 This book outlines the way of life that existed on the prairies before the Canadian presence was established examining the various institutions that placed the Anglo Canadian elite in a position of power by the 1880s It investigates the role of the North West Mounted Police and the North West Field Force in establishing Canadian hegomony and analyzes government policies that were employed to control those who were seen as a threat in the wake of the 1885 Resistance It concludes with a description of the various interpretations for Fort Battleford
