What is cystic fibrosis? It's a genetic disorder that causes the EXOCRINE glands to work incorrectly. This leads to some major complications that can affect the respiratory (both upper/lower), digestive (pancreas, liver, intestines), integumentary, and reproductive systems.

What are exocrine glands? These are glands that produce and transfer it's secretions (ex: mucous, tears, sweat, digestive enzymes) via DUCTS to its intended area of the body rather than directly into the bloodstream like endocrine glands.

In cystic fibrosis, a gene that makes up the exocrine glands is mutated and this prevents the exocrine glands from working properly. The gene that is mutated is called the CFTR gene!
