Czech Sculpture 1800-1938:

Sculpture 1900-1945 Penelope Curtis, 1999 This book provides a comprehensive analysis of the significant growth of sculpture as an artistic form in Europe and America from 1900-1945. Using a clearly defined thematic structure, it identifies key issues and developments throughout this important period in the history of art. Individual chapters cover public sculpture, the monument, the object, image making, the built environment, the figurative ideal, and different materials. These themes broadly reflect the changing cultural and political climate of a turbulent period which included two world wars, each preceded by widespread rising nationalism. The practice of sculpture is considered within the wider artistic context of painting and architecture and the development of international art markets. Auguste Rodin, whose ground-breaking exhibition opened in Paris in 1900, serves as the book's point of departure and as a recurrent point of reference. Czech Cubism 1909-1925 Jaroslav Anděl, 2006 Czech & Slovak Republics, 1999 Czechoslovakia David Short, 1986 The Colour of Sculpture, 1840-1910 Andreas Blühm, Van Gogh Museum, Amsterdam, 1996 Sculpture is commonly associated with the three dimensions of volume, while color is claimed as the exclusive means of expression for painters. However, polychromy was widely used in sculpture from the Middle Ages to the Baroque, and beginning in 1814 there was a renewed interest in antique polychromy. Its effect in sculpture became visible several decades later. This book sheds light on this neglected aspect and leads to a better understanding of the art of the period in general. The volume includes works by Edgar Degas, Paul Gauguin, Jean Leon Gerome, Auguste Rodin, and many others. Prague 1900 Edwin Becker, Michael Huig, 1999 This lavishly illustrated book introduces the world of fin de siècle Prague. Around 1900, city's artists and artisans began to develop a particular ornamental language inspired by the contemporary revival of Czech culture and influenced by Art Nouveau, Jugendstil, and the Vienna Secession. To begin with lyricism and poetic symbolism, dominated the visual arts. Jan Preisler, one of the most important figures of the time, created sensual paintings and sculptures based on themes connected to the writings of such Czech authors as Zeyer and Brezina. Other artists such as Kobliha and Hlaváček focused on turbulent forms, dramatic expressions of torment and the macabre. In the applied arts, exuberant floral and vegetal motifs were gradually transformed into geometric patterns. Prague 1900 charts the effects of the emergence of modernism and the search for Czech national identity in both the fine and the applied arts, as well as in architecture, music, and literature. The book also includes a wealth of illustrations of interiors, architectural and sculptural details, and documentary photographs. Biographies of the most important artists are provided, as well as a full chronology of artists and events. Bibliographic Guide to Soviet and East European Studies, 1992 G. K. Hall and Co.
