

Discrimination

Situation:

We have two or more populations π_1, π_2, etc (possibly p -variate normal).

The populations are known (or we have data from each population)

We have data for a new case (population unknown) and we want to identify the which population for which the new case is a member.

Hand, 1981-11-04 Distribution free methods Parameterized distributions Linear discriminant functions Discrete variables Variable selection Cluster analysis Miscellaneous topics Statistical Methods of Discrimination and Classification Sung C. Choi, Ervin Y. Rodin, 2014-05-17 Statistical Methods of Discrimination and Classification Advances in Theory and Applications is a collection of papers that tackles the multivariate problems of discriminating and classifying subjects into exclusive population The book presents 13 papers that cover that advancement in the statistical procedure of discriminating and classifying The studies in the text primarily focus on various methods of discriminating and classifying variables such as multiple discriminant analysis in the presence of mixed continuous and categorical data choice of the smoothing parameter and efficiency of k nearest neighbor classification and assessing the performance of an allocation rule The book will be of great use to researchers and practitioners of wide array of scientific disciplines including engineering psychology biology and physics Discrimination and Classification Using Conditionally Independent Marginal Mixtures Emmanuel Nicholas Lazaridis, 1994 A Comparison of Techniques Used in Discrimination and Classification Owen Michael Grant Hamilton, McMaster University. Infinite Dimensional Discrimination and Classification Hyejin Shin, 2007 Modern data collection methods are now frequently returning observations that should be viewed as the result of digitized recording or sampling from stochastic processes rather than vectors of finite length In spite of great demands only a few classification methodologies for such data have been suggested and supporting theory is quite limited The focus of this dissertation is on discrimination and classification in this infinite dimensional setting The methodology and theory we develop are based on the abstract canonical correlation concept of Eubank and Hsing 2005 and motivated by the fact that Fisher's discriminant analysis method is intimately tied to canonical correlation analysis Specifically we have developed a theoretical framework for discrimination and classification of sample paths from stochastic processes through use of the Lo ve Parzen isomorphism that connects a second order process to the reproducing kernel Hilbert space generated by its covariance kernel This approach provides a seamless transition between the finite and infinite dimensional settings and lends itself well to computation via smoothing and regularization In addition we have developed a new computational procedure and illustrated it with simulated data and Canadian weather data

Designing Wireless Sensor Network Solutions for Tactical ISR Timothy D. Cole,2020-09-30 This comprehensive resource demonstrates how wireless sensor network WSN systems a key element of the Internet of Things IoT are designed and evaluated to solve problems associated with autonomous sensing systems Functional blocks that form WSN based systems are described chapter by chapter providing the reader with a progressive learning path through all aspects of designing remote sensing capabilities using a WSN based system The development and a full description of fundamental performance equations and technological solutions required by these real time systems are included This book explores the objectives and goals associated with tactical intelligence surveillance and reconnaissance T ISR missions Readers gain insight into the correlation between fine grained sensor resolution associated with WSN based system complexities and the difficult requirements associated with T ISR missions The book demonstrates how to wield emergent technologies to arrive at reliable and robust wireless networking for T ISR and associated tasks using low cost low power persistent sensor nodes WSN is broken down into constituent subsystems key components functional descriptions and attendant mathematical descriptions This resource explains how the design of each element can be approached and successfully integrated into a viable and responsive sensor system that is autonomous adaptable to mission objectives and environments and deployable worldwide It also provides examples of what not to do based on lessons learned from past and current systems that failed to provide end users with the required information Chapters are linked together in order of system assembly concepts to operation to provide the reader with a full toolset that can help deliver versatility in design decisions solutions and understanding of such systems end to end

Encyclopedia of Optimization Christodoulos A. Floudas,Panos M. Pardalos,2008-09-04 The goal of the Encyclopedia of Optimization is to introduce the reader to a complete set of topics that show the spectrum of research the richness of ideas and the breadth of applications that has come from this field The second edition builds on the success of the former edition with more than 150 completely new entries designed to ensure that the reference addresses recent areas where optimization theories and techniques have advanced Particularly heavy attention resulted in health science and transportation with entries such as Algorithms for Genomics Optimization and Radiotherapy Treatment Design and Crew Scheduling
