An Anthology of African Art N'Goné Fall, Jean Loup Pivin, 2002 The term Modern African Art is not an abuse of language The 20th century has seen but not properly documented the birth development and maturation of contemporary art in sub Saharan Africa an art which was not simply imported in the 1950s but which finds its sources both in colonial realities and in local cultures and civilizations Anthology of African Art The Twentieth Century does not propose to document any one African art but rather to open up this vast but underexplored field to include a diverse theoretical historical geographical and critical map of this dense and ancient region Contributions by more than 30 international authors recount the birth of art schools in the 1930s the development of urban design and public art and the importance of socially concerned art during the Independence movements From Ethiopia Nigeria and the Belgian Congo to Ghana Senegal and Angola through the works of hundreds of artists working in every conceivable medium and context this anthology manages the continental and unique feat of providing a thorough expansive diversified and fully illustrated history of African art in the 20th century Since 1991 Paris based Revue Noire Editions has dedicated itself to the multidisciplinary artistic production of the African continent and the African diaspora Publishers of the critically acclaimed An Anthology of African Photography a comprehensive chronicle of African photography from the mid 1800s to the present Revue Noire also produces a self titled magazine devoted to contemporary African art and culture

Flam, Miriam Deutch, 2003 This is a much needed important collection a goldmine of sources for scholars and students The texts articulate the key Primitivist aesthetic discourses of the period offering crucial insight into the complex and always changing nexus between culture politics and representation Because of the breadth of the materials covered and the controversies they raise this anthology is one of the all too rare volumes that not only will provide reference materials for
