Disease And Representation Images Of Illness From Madness To Aids:

Disease and Representation Sander L. Gilman, 1988      Ethnopsychiatry Atwood D. Gaines, 1992-08-17 This book outlines a new ethnopsychiatry one that considers popular or folk ethnomedicines and professional psychiatric systems in the same discourse effacing the traditional distinction between psychiatry and ethnopsychiatry The essays in this volume are from a diverse interdisciplinary group representing history psychology sociology and medicine as well as anthropology The author view both ethnomedical practices and illness as local cultural constructions They consider ideologies and institutions from both professional and popular ethnopsychiatric systems in America Western Europe South Africa the Caribbean Japan and India The book demonstrates that professional and popular psychiatric medicines lie along the same local cultural continua that professional scientific psychiatries and less formalized systems of local popular psychology are epistemological relatives aspects of common cultural discourses on normality and abnormality The essays reject the notion of a universal uniform reality of psychopathology beyond cultural boundaries but the data strongly support the cultural and historically constructed nature of ethnopsychiatry in its illness ideologies and institutions Contributors to this volume include Amy V Blue Thomas Csordas Ellen Dwyer Paul E Farmer M D Atwood D Gaines Helena Jia Hershel Janis Jenkins Pearl Katz Thomas Mareztki Naoki Nomura Charles Nuckolls Kathryn Oths Lorna Amarasingham Rhodes and Leslie Swartz      Teaching Literature and Medicine Anne Hunsaker Hawkins, Marilyn Chandler McEntyre, 2016-01-01 Both the actualities and the metaphorical possibilities of illness and medicine abound in literature from the presence of tuberculosis in Franz Kafka's fiction or childbed fever in Mary Shelley's Frankenstein to disease in Thomas Mann's Death in Venice or in Harold Pinter's A Kind of Alaska from the stories of Anton Chekhov and of William Carlos Williams both doctors to the poetry of nurses derived from their contrasting experiences These are just a few examples of the cross pollination between literature and medicine It is no surprise then that courses in literature and medicine flourish in undergraduate curricula medical schools and continuing education programs throughout the United States and Canada This volume in the MLA series Options for Teaching presents a variety of approaches to the subject It is intended both for literary scholars and for physicians who teach literature and medicine or who are interested in enriching their courses in either discipline by introducing interdisciplinary dimensions The thirty four essays in Teaching Literature and Medicine describe model courses deal with specific texts authors and genres list readings widely taught in literature and medicine courses discuss the value of texts in both medical education and the practice of medicine and provide bibliographic resources including works in the history of medicine from classical antiquity      Diseases and Disorders in Contemporary Fiction James Peacock, Tim Lustig, 2013-04-17 The essays in this collection address the current preoccupation with neurological conditions and disorders in contemporary literature by British and American writers The book places these fictional treatments within a broader cultural and historical context exploring such topics as the two cultures debate the neurological turn postmodernism and the post postmodern and responses to September 11th Considering a variety of materials including mainstream literary fiction the graphic novel popular fiction autobiographical writing film and television contributors consider the contemporary dimensions of the interface between the sciences and humanities developing the debate about the post postmodern as a new humanism or a return to realism and investigating questions of form and genre and of literary continuities and discontinuities Further the essays discuss contemporary writers attempts to engage the relation between the individual and the social looking at the relation between the syndrome syndrome referring to the prevalence in contemporary literature of neurological phenomena evident at the biological level and existing work in the field of trauma studies where explanations tend to have taken a psychoanalytical form allowing for perspectives that question some of the assumptions that have marked both these fields The current literary preoccupation with neurological conditions presents us with a new and distinctive form of trauma literature one concerned less with psychoanalysis than with the physical and evolutionary status of human beings

Representing the Plague in Early Modern England Rebecca Totaro, Ernest B. Gilman, 2010-09-13 This collection offers readers a timely encounter with the historical experience of people adapting to a pandemic emergency and the corresponding narrative representation of that crisis as early modern writers transformed the plague into literature The essays examine the impact of the plague on health politics and religion as well as on the plays prose fiction and plague bills that stand as witnesses to the experience of a society devastated by contagious disease Readers will find physicians and moralists wrestling with the mysteries of the disease erotic escapades staged in plague time plays the poignant prose works of William Bullein and Thomas Dekker the bodies of monarchs who sought to protect themselves from plague the chameleon like nature of the plague as literal disease and as metaphor and future strains of plague literary and otherwise which we may face in the globally minded technology dependent and ecologically awakened twenty first century The bubonic plague compelled change in all aspects of lived experience in Early Modern England but at the same time it opened space for writers to explore new ideas and new literary forms not all of them somber or horrifying and some of them downright hilarious By representing the plague for their audiences these writers made an epidemic calamity intelligible for them the dreaded disease could signify despair but also hope bewilderment but also a divine plan quarantine but also liberty death but also new life

P. de Ras, Victoria Grace, 1997 Churchill Madikida Churchill Madikida, 2006 Constructing risk, threat, catastrophe Christian Giordano, Andrea Boscoboinik, 2002 History and Philosophy of the Life Sciences, 1993 Review, 1995 The American Scholar William Allison Shimer, 1988 Rhetorical Bodies Jack Selzer, Sharon Crowley, 1999 What significance does the physical material body still have in a world of virtual reality and genetic cloning How do technology and postmodern rhetoric influence our understanding of the body And how can our discussion of the body affect the way we handle crises in public policy the politics of race and ethnicity issues of family values that revolve around sexual and gender identities the choices revolving around reproduction and genome projects and the spread of disease Leading scholars in rhetoric and communication as well as literary and cultural studies address some of the most important topics currently being discussed in the human sciences The essays collected here suggest the wide range of public arenas in which rhetoric is operative from abortion clinics and the World Wide Web to the media's depiction of illiteracy and the Donner Party These studies demonstrate how the discourse of AIDS prevention or Demi Moore's beautiful pregnancy call to mind the physical nature of being human and the ways in which language and other symbols reflect and create the physical world Sicilian Immigration to New Orleans, 1870-1910 Louise Reynes Edwards-Simpson, 1996 Race, War and Nationalism Glenford D. Howe, 2002 This work provides an account of the West Indian soldiers in World War I It focuses on the processes and politics surrounding the participation of Blacks in the war and reveals the daily problems of Army life for West Indian recruits the internal intricacies of army administration the functions performed by West Indian soldiers and their difficult experiences after the war The Dictatorship of Sex Frances Lee Bernstein, 2007 The Dictatorship of Sex explores the attempts to define and control sexual behavior in the years following the Russian Revolution It is the first book to examine Soviet sexual enlightenment a program of popular health and lifestyle advice intended to establish a model of sexual conduct for the men and women who would build socialism Leftist social theorists and political activists had long envisioned an egalitarian utopia and after 1917 the medical profession took the leading role in solving the sex question while at the same time carving out a niche for itself among postrevolutionary social institutions Frances Bernstein reveals the tension between the doctors advocacy for relatively liberal social policy and the generally proscriptive nature of their advice as well as their lack of interest in questions of personal pleasure fulfillment and sexual expression While supporting the goals of the Soviet state the enlighteners appealed to irrefutable biological truths that ultimately supported a very traditional gender regime The Dictatorship of Sex offers a unique lens through which to contemplate a central conundrum of Russian history the relationship between the supposedly liberated 1920s and repressive 1930s Although most of the proponents of sexual enlightenment in the 1920s would suffer greatly during Stalin's purges their writings facilitated the Stalinist approach to sexuality and the family Bernstein's book will interest historians of Russia gender sexuality and medicine as well as anyone
