Sabrina P. Ramet, 1992 Coming at a time of enormous transformations in the one time Communist bloc this volume provides a much needed perspective on the significance of church state relations in the renaissance of civil society in the region The essays collected here accentuate the peculiarly political character of Protestantism within Communist systems With few identifiable leaders a multiplicity of denominations and a tendency away from hierarchical structures the Protestant churches presents a remarkably diverse pattern of church state relations Consequently the longtime coexistence of Protestantism and Communism in Eastern Europe and the former Soviet Union affords numerous examples of political accommodation and theological adaption that both reflect and foreshadow the dramatic changes of the 1990s Based on extensive field research including interviews with notable figures in the Protestant churches in the region the essays in this volume address broad topics such as the church s involvement in environmentalism pacifism and other dissident movements as well as issues particular to Russia Poland Czechoslovakia East Germany 1949 1989 Hungary Yugoslavia 1945 1991 Bulgaria and Romania The final volume in the three volume work Christianity Under Stress Protestantism and Politics in Eastern Europe and Russia will prove invaluable to anyone hoping to understand not only the workings of religion under Communism but the historical and contemporary interactions of church and state in general Contributors Paul Bock Lawrence Klippenstein Paul Mojzes Earl A Pope Joseph Pungur Sabrina Petra Ramet Walter Sawatsky N Gerald Shenk Gerd Stricker Sape A Zylstra Christian Orthodox Migrants in Western Europe Maria Hämmerli, 2022-10-26 Christian Orthodox Migrants in Western Europe
Secularization and Modernity through the Lens of the Gift Paradigm explores a religious community that has been getting increasing scholarly attention While most of the literature in the field looks at this religious tradition in terms of its alleged inability to come to terms with modernity due to its specific religious institutions practices and dogma this book takes a step back from such Western centered and Protestant biased analysis of religion It addresses Orthodoxy s recent encounter with the West modernity and secularization in the process of post communist migrations from Eastern Europe revealing the complicated identity redefinition and re compositions of a religious group that highly values continuity tradition and ethnic national belonging Using socio anthropological qualitative research on Romanian Russian Greek and Serbian Orthodox migrants in Western Europe in a comparative perspective this volume grasps the interplay between the institutional and the individually lived aspects of religion in their relation to the increasingly secular conditions of belief in Western European host countries This book is important for those studying or researching Orthodox Christianity religion and migration secularization and modernity as well as those in related disciplines such as sociology anthropology of religion religious studies political science migration studies and cultural studies The Open Access version of this book available at <http://www>

Culture and Customs of the Czech Republic and Slovakia Craig Cravens, 2006-08-30 The Czech Republic is a red hot European destination and the charms of Slovakia are slowly being discovered by Westerners as well. The two countries share fundamental similarities in language and culture but they never really managed to create a common national Czechoslovak identity after being merged in 1918 when the Austro-Hungarian Empire collapsed. With the lifting of the Iron Curtain in 1989 through the Velvet Revolution and the final breakup of Czechoslovakia into two countries in 1993, this up-to-date substantive insight is much needed. This volume overviews the current social, cultural, and political scene of both countries so that general readers come away with a solid understanding of where the Czechs and Slovaks have been and where they are going. The land, people, and history chapter lays the groundwork for the rest of the narrative. In the chapter on religion and thought, the reasons for the widespread atheism of the Czechs and the contrasting religiosity of the Slovaks are explained. Both peoples are shown to have a relaxed attitude toward life and a love of celebrations with a strong beer culture. The state of women and family and feminism in the post-Soviet era is also discussed, and readers will learn about the role of romance novels and the Czech Cosmopolitan. The literature chapter emphasizes the Czech sense of humor and the lack of translations of Slovakian works. The crises in journalism and cinema are other important topics. Finally, the strong traditions of theater and music, which have always been part of the Czech national consciousness, are seen to be as alive and vibrant as in any place in the world.

Church, Nation and State in Russia and Ukraine Geoffrey A. Hosking, 1991-09-23 The opportunities opened up by the Gorbachev reforms have shown that religion is one of the most significant dynamic forces in Soviet society. Yet few scholars have attempted to relate the study of churches and religious movements in recent centuries to the politics and culture of the Soviet Union. To remedy this deficiency, leading western experts on Christianity in the Eastern Slav lands gathered at a conference in London on the occasion of the millennium of the baptism of Rus. Their papers present unexpected and fascinating insights into an under-rated but crucial aspect of the life of the Soviet peoples.

Russian Baptists and Orthodoxy, 1960-1990 Constantine Prokhorov, 2014-01-14 Russian Baptists and the Orthodox Church have had a difficult and at times dramatic relationship over the past century and a half. However, the purpose of this thesis is to examine certain internal connections between these two Christian bodies. Despite the evident dissimilarity in theology, church practice, and traditions, there is common ground which has been largely unexplored. A number of features inevitably brought them together, such as living in the same country over a long period of time, sharing a history and national roots, responding to the same civic concerns, and finally, until recently, using the same Russian Synodal translation of the Bible. This thesis explores first of all the roots of the issue of Orthodox Baptist similarities and dissimilarities in the nineteenth century. The remainder of the thesis focuses on 1960 to 1990. There is a chapter analyzing the way in which, in significant areas, Russian Baptist theology resembled Orthodox thinking. This is followed by a study of church and sacraments, which again shows that Russian Baptist approaches had echoes of Orthodoxy The thesis then explores Baptist liturgy showing the Orthodox elements that were present The same connections are then explored in the area of Russian Baptist communal spiritual traditions The examination of the Bible beliefs and behaviour also indicates the extent to which Russian Baptists mirrored Orthodoxy Finally there is an analysis of the popular piety of the Russian Baptists and the way in which they constructed an alternative culture The basic views of Russian Baptists between the 1960s and 1990 have been drawn from periodicals of the Russian Baptist communities and from interviews with pastors presbyters and church members who were part of these communities This often yields insights into primary theology which in relation to many issues differs from official Baptist declarations that tend to stress the more Protestant aspects of Russian Baptist life The aim of the thesis is to show that in a period in the history of the USSR when the division between the Western world and the Soviet bloc was marked there was a strong Eastern orientation among Russian Baptists This changed when the USSR came to an end Over a number of years there was mass emigration of Russian Baptists and in addition pro Western thinking gained considerable ground within the Russian Baptist community During the period examined here however it is possible to uncover a great deal of evidence of Russian Baptists participating in Orthodox theology spiritual mentality and culture

Religion and Nationalism in Soviet and East European Politics Sabrina P. Ramet,1989 Religious organizations in many countries of the communist world have served as agents for the preservation defense and reinforcement of nationalist feelings and in playing this role have frequently been a source of frustration to the Communist Party elites Although the relationship between governments and religious groups varies according to the particular country and group in question the mosaic of these relationships constitutes a revealing picture of the political reform shaping the lives of Soviet and East European citizens

Church and State in Postwar Eastern Europe G. E. Gorman,1987-06-16 This annotated bibliography

covers the available literature on the relationship between Soviet and Eastern European churches and the societies in which they have existed since the end of World War II In order to shed some light on the mutual relations between the churches and society two survey chapters provide a general orientation The attitude of the churches toward their society is analyzed first then the reverse is attempted with a description of the societal attitudes toward the churches The bibliography proper first presents books and articles dealing with the entire region then on a country by country basis Because the sources dealing with the Soviet Union are most numerous they have been broken down into materials dealing with general and inclusive religious policies and issues the Russian Orthodox Church the Oriental Apostolic Churches Georgian and Armenian the Roman Catholic Church and the Protestants and sectarians This bibliography is among the first to deal with the historic and current status of the Christian churches in Eastern Europe
