Dismantling Time Jie Lu, 2005 This book deals with contemporary Chinese literature and literary culture especially in regard to the impact of globalisation and analyses the innovative narrative structure of Chinese experimental writings from the mid 1980s to the 1990s as both reflecting and contributing to broader changes in the consciousness of time It focuses on the relationship between fictional narrative form and contemporary Chinese post historical experiences prompted by political sociocultural and socioeconomic changes as well as global influences

China's Literary and Cultural Scenes at the Turn of the 21st Century Jie Lu, 2013-10-18 China's literary and cultural production at the turn of the twenty first century is marked by heterogeneity plurality and diversity Given its complexity the literary cultural production of this period perhaps can be understood most productively as a response to a global modernity that has touched and transformed all aspects of contemporary Chinese reality The eleven essays in this book offer an introduction to some of the most important works published at the turn of the twenty first century In combining textual analysis of specific works with theoretical insights and in locating the texts in their sociocultural and socioeconomic contexts the essays explore key theoretical issues and intellectual concerns of the time They collectively draw a broad contour of new developments major trends and radical changes capturing the intellectual and cultural Zeitgeist of the age All in all these essays offer new theoretical approaches to and critical perspectives on contemporary Chinese literature and culture

Belief, History and the Individual in Modern Chinese Literary Culture Artur K. Wardega, 2009-03-26 A value system in constant change a longing for stability amid uncertainties about the future a new consciousness about the unlimited challenges and aspirations in modern life these are themes in modern Chinese literature that attract the attention of overseas readers as well as its domestic audience They also provide Chinese and foreign literary researchers with complex questions about human life and achievements that search beyond national identities for global interaction and exchange This volume presents ten outstanding essays by Chinese and European scholars who have undertaken such exchange for the purpose of examining the individual and society in modern Chinese literature

Transpacific Literary and Cultural Connections Jie Lu, Martín Camps, 2020-11-11 This critical interdisciplinary volume investigates modern and contemporary Asian cultural products in the non westernized transpacific context of Asian and Latin American intellectual and cultural connections It focuses on the Latin American intellectual literary and cultural influences on Asia which have long been overshadowed by the dominance of Europe North America oriented discourse and by the predominance of academic research by both Asian and western intellectuals that focuses only on the West Moving beyond the western intellectual paradigm the volume examines how Asian literature films and art interact with Latin American literature and ideas to reexamine reconsider and re explore issues related to the two regions historical traumas cultural identities indigenous vernacular traditions and peripheral global ness The volume argues that Asian and Latin American literary and cultural endeavors are part of these regions broader efforts to search for the forms of modernity that best fit their unique sociohistorical and sociocultural conditions

Visions of Dystopia in China's New Historical Novels Jeffrey C. Kinkley, 2014-11-18 The depiction of personal and collective suffering in modern Chinese novels differs significantly from standard Communist accounts and many Eastern and Western historical narratives Writers such as Yu Hua Su Tong Wang Anyi Mo Yan Han Shaogong Ge Fei Li Rui and Zhang Wei skew and scramble common conceptions of China's modern development deploying avant garde narrative techniques from Latin American and Euro American modernism to project a surprisingly un Chinese dystopian vision and critical view of human culture and ethics The epic narratives of modern Chinese fiction make rich use of magical realism surrealism and unusual treatments of historical time Also featuring graphic depictions of sex and violence as well as dark raunchy comedy these novels reflect China's recent history re presenting the overthrow of the monarchy in the early twentieth century and the resulting chaos of revolution and war the recurring miseries perpetrated by class warfare during the dictatorship of Mao Zedong and the social dislocations caused by China's industrialization and rise as a global power This book casts China's highbrow historical novels from the late 1980s to the first decade of the twenty first century as a distinctively Chinese contribution to the form of the global dystopian novel and consequently to global thinking about the interrelations of utopia and dystopia

Rethinking Third Cinema Frieda Ekotto, Adeline Koh, 2009 In 1968 Argentinean Filmmakers Fernando Solanas and Octavio Getino first articulated the theory of a Third Cinema a revolutionary genre of cinema that would counter oppression on a global scale Intended to be a guerilla cinema geared at contesting the overwhelming dominance of Western cinema Solana and Getino distinguished Third Cinema from other forms of cinema classifying these other types as First Cinema commercial cinema epitomized by Hollywood and Second Cinema Third Cinema was supposed to be a liberatory tool particularly for the bulk of the world that was subject to European imperialism such as Latin America Africa and Asia Spanning a wide geographical spread of cinemas ranging from Latin America North and Sub Saharan Africa the Caribbean and Asia this book addresses the following questions how can we rethink the concept of Third Cinema for today How do new national cinemas and their accompanying media industries reflect the concerns of societies that are struggling with the implications of accelerated modernization and how are these concerns configured in new genres of aesthetics Is there still a Third Cinema component in contemporary cinemas and if so how can it be understood

China and New Left Visions Jie Lu, Ban Wang, 2012-07-20 Against the dire consequences of China's market development a new intellectual force of the New Left has come on the scene since the mid

1990s New Left intellectuals debate the issues of social justice distributive equality markets state intervention the socialist legacy and sustainable development Against the neoliberal trends of free markets liberal democracy and consumerism New Left critics launched a critique in hopes of seeking an alternative to global capitalism This volume takes a comprehensive look at China's New Left in intellectual cultural and literary manifestations The writers place the New Left within a global anti hegemonic movement and the legacy of the Cold War They discover grassroots literature that portrays the plight and resilience of the downtrodden and disadvantaged With historical visions the writers also shed light on the present by drawing on the socialist past

Martial Arts as Embodied Knowledge D. S. Farrer, John Whalen-Bridge, 2011-12-01 This landmark work provides a wide ranging scholarly consideration of the traditional Asian martial arts Most of the contributors to the volume are practitioners of the martial arts and all are keenly aware that these traditions now exist in a transnational context The book's cutting edge research includes ethnography and approaches from film literature performance and theater studies Three central aspects emerge from this book martial arts as embodied fantasy as a culturally embedded form of self cultivation and as a continuous process of identity formation Contributors explore several popular and highbrow cultural considerations including the career of Bruce Lee Chinese wuxia films and Don DeLillo's novel Running Dog Ethnographies explored describe how the social body trains in martial arts and how martial arts are constructed in transnational training Ultimately this academic study of martial arts offers a focal point for new understandings of cultural and social beliefs and of practice and agency

Globalization and Cultural Translation Ning Wang, 2004 This is a study of translation which is put in a broader context of globalisation and culture The author includes case studies such as the critical and creative reception of such Western writers as Henrik Ibsen and Walt Whitman who have both made significant contributions to China's cultural modernity and literary modernism

Multinational Corporations' Public Relations in Host Countries Liu, Xi, 2005 This volume examines issues of public relations as experienced by a multinational corporation subsidiary in the actual day to day context of China By taking into account influential organizational members from non public relations areas their viewpoints about good public relations and their interface with local public relations workers in public relations situations this study puts into perspective the intricacy of local public relations workers working conditions and its impact The study also grants attention to behavioral frameworks in operation in public relations situations and reveals their informing and regulating effects on local public relations workers decision making and actions In this sense the study allows the chance for researchers to get closer to the real world nuances and consequences of the internal processes involved in an multinational corporation subsidiary's public relations
