Disclosing Spaces On Painting:

Disclosing Spaces Andrew Benjamin, 2004 In recent decades the proliferation of art practices has left behind the critical frameworks needed to understand and appraise art In Disclosing Spaces Andrew Benjamin diagnoses and addresses this failure in terms of the role of criticism itself proposing a realignment of the relationship between painting and criticism at a fundamental level Broaching the idea that Paintings are not examples not even of paintings the consequences are played out against modern art theory in a uniquely philosophical way An individual art work cannot be seen in any straightforward way as a particular of an established universal that we might call art painting is not reducible to a determined form Rather maintains Benjamin painting evolves and encounters new territory through the constant tension of the work that constitutes the art and the work of criticism What follows is a renewal of the terms of criticism which draws on the philosophical Immanuel Kant Walter Benjamin and the art theoretical Arthur Danto Rosalind Krauss alike Throughout the argument is funneled through detailed treatment of an eclectic range of works classical modern and postmodern This intriguing and persuasive book is illustrated with the works under consideration and will serve as a valuable new vantage point for students and teachers of art art history or aesthetic philosophy Publisher description

Digital Media and Technologies for Virtual Artistic Spaces Harrison, Dew, 2013-02-28 Emerging new technologies such as digital media have helped artists to position art into the everyday lives and activities of the public These new virtual spaces allow artists to utilize a more participatory experience with their audience Digital Media and Technologies for Virtual Artistic Spaces brings together a variety of artistic practices in virtual spaces and the interest in variable media and online platforms for creative interplay Presenting frameworks and examples of current practices this book is useful for artists theorists curators as well as researchers working with new technologies social media platforms and digital culture

Photography and Its Violations John Roberts, 2014-09-30 Theorists critique photography for objectifying its subjects and manipulating appearance for the sake of art In this bold counterargument John Roberts recasts photography's violating powers and aesthetic technique as part of a complex social ontology that exposes the hierarchies divisions and exclusions behind appearances Photography must arrive unannounced and get in the way of the world Roberts argues committing to the truth claims of the spectator over the self interests and sensitivities of the subject Yet even though the violating capacity of the photograph results from external power relations the photographer is still faced with an ethical choice whether to advance photography's truth claims on the basis of these powers or to diminish or veil these powers to protect the integrity of the subject Photography's acts of intrusion and destabilization constantly test the photographer at the point of production in the darkroom and at the computer especially in our 24 hour digital image culture Roberts's refunctioning of photography's place in the world is therefore critically game changing as it politically and theoretically restores the reputation of the art

Art's Philosophical Work Andrew Benjamin, 2015-06-03 What is the work of art How does art work as art Andrew Benjamin contends that the only way to address these questions is by developing a radically new materialist philosophy of art and by rethinking the history of art from within that perspective A materialist philosophy of art starts with the contention that meaning is only ever the after effect of the way in which materials work Starting with the relation between history materials and work art s work this book opens up a highly original reconfiguration of the philosophy of art Benjamin undertakes a major project that seeks to develop a set of complex interarticulations between art history and an approach to art s work that emphasizes art s material presence A philosophy of art emerges from the limitations of aesthetics

Handbook of Research on Digital Media and Creative Technologies Harrison, Dew, 2015-03-31 Emerging technologies enable a wide variety of creative expression from music and video to innovations in visual art These aesthetics when properly explored can enable enhanced communication between all kinds of people and cultures The Handbook of Research on Digital Media and Creative Technologies considers the latest research in education communication and creative social expression using digital technologies By exploring advances in art and culture across national and sociological borders this handbook serves to provide artists theorists information communication specialists and researchers with the tools they need to effectively disseminate their ideas across the digital plane

From Space in Modern Art to a Spatial Art History Jutta Vinzent, 2019-12-02 This book traces artists theories of constructive space in the first half of the twentieth century Drawing on these concepts and recent theories on space it develops a methodology termed Spatial Art History that conceives of artworks as physical spatio temporal things which produce the social to overcome the reductive understanding of art as a mere mirror or facilitator of society
