Discourse Production and Comprehension ,1982 Discourse production and comprehension ,1977 Discourse Markers in Interaction Maria-Josep Cuenca, Liesbeth Degand, 2022-09-06 The aim of this volume is to bring together researchers interested in investigating the role that Discourse Markers play in language production and comprehension from an experimental or corpus based perspective In any kind of human communication Discourse Markers are part of the game This omnipresence informs us of a crucial inherent aspect of human language Yet as a linguistic category Discourse Markers remain underdetermined To gain deeper insight into this complex linguistic category more systematic work is needed on the production and on the interpretation of Discourse Markers in a variety of situational settings resorting to different methodological approaches The contributions in this volume aim at drawing more attention to the double face of Discourse Markers namely as signals intentionally used by the speaker to facilitate the addressee's interpretation of the discourse but also as potential traces of the speaker's production difficulties The combination of experimental and corpus based approaches and the focus on processing of Discourse Markers in both production and comprehension makes this volume a unique contribution in answering the question why we use Discourse Markers in certain situations but also when we do not

Processing interclausal Relationships Jean Costermans, Michel Fayol, 2014-03-18 During the last 10 years more and more linguistic and psycholinguistic research has been devoted to the study of discourse and written texts Much of this research deals with the markers that underline the connections and the breaks between clauses and sentences plus the use of these markers by adults and children in the production and comprehension of oral and written material In this volume major observations and theoretical views from both sides of the Atlantic are brought together to appeal to a wide range of linguists psychologists and speech therapists The volume presents contributions from researchers interested specifically in adult language and from others concerned with developmental aspects of language Some contributors deal primarily with production whereas others concentrate on comprehension Some direct their attention to oral discourse while others focus on written texts To preserve overall coherence however the contributors were given the following recommendations With regard to the level of linguistic analysis the emphasis should be on the clause level more particularly on the relationships between clauses Special emphasis should also be placed on linguistic markers e g connectives markers of segmentation punctuation An overview of a given field of research should be offered and current research should be put into perspective For contributors in the developmental field attention should be paid to the fact that an account of the acquisition of some language functions throughout childhood should be included only if general principles of interclause relations that might be masked by the exclusive examination of adult evidence could be derived from it
