Coping with Risk in Agriculture J. B. Hardaker, Ruud B. M. Huirne, Jock R. Anderson, 1997 Risk and uncertainty are inescapable factors in agriculture Farmers face production risk from the weather crop and livestock performance and pests and diseases as well as government controlled institutional risk and personal or human risk Together with price or market risks these constitute business risk which is further related to financial risk All of these factors must be managed to achieve satisfactory management in agriculture The aim of this book is to introduce the nature of agricultural decision making under uncertainty the concept of rational choice and its foundations in theories of probability and risk preference It also describes methods for the analysis of risky decisions that can be used in agriculture and the preparation of plans for risk management

Coping with Risk in Agriculture Laxmi Dalvi, 2016 Farmers in developing countries are frequently exposed to the uncertainties of weather prices and disease Many farmers live on the edge of extreme uncertainty sometimes falling just below and sometimes rising just above the threshold of survival Farmers do not know whether rainfall will be good or bad over a season they do not know the prices they will receive for produce sold and they do not know whether their crops will be infected by disease These risks are not under the control of farmers but some farmers have developed ways of coping and managing them Farmers make decisions every day that affect farming operations Many of the factors that affect the decisions they make cannot be predicted with complete accuracy this is risk Farming has become increasingly risky as farmers become more commercial Farmers need to understand risk and have risk management skills to better anticipate problems and reduce consequences
