Coping With Discrimination:

Coping with Discrimination and Prejudice Mary Bowman-Kruhm, Claudine G. Wirths, 1998 Examines the causes and effects of prejudice and discrimination and discusses how to confront and cope with them Coping with Discrimination Julie Hunt Johnson, 2020 This research study seeks to examine several critical gaps in our understanding of coping with discrimination This research study was one of the first to examine developmental trends in coping with discrimination from high school to college African American college students n 66 Mage 21 20 reported that their coping with discrimination strategies have improved since high school including educating and advocating resisting and support seeking This study also examines the relationship between personal coping resources and coping with discrimination strategies Agency ethnic identity and self esteem emerged as significant predictors of coping with discrimination strategies This study investigated personal coping resources and coping with discrimination strategies in relation to a specific event of discrimination and was one of the first to empirically examine forgiveness as a process within the context of racism Results suggest that forgiving a single act of discrimination nested within a larger system of racism may present additional considerations for the process of forgiveness Practical implications for future research are discussed Coping with Discrimination Gabrielle I. Edwards, 1991-08-01 Examines the historical patterns and results of prejudice and discrimination and their effects on such minorities as the homeless blacks women homosexuals and the handicapped Workbook for Coping with Discrimination Gabrielle I. Edwards, 1987 Coping with Discrimination Joanie Marie Mitchell, 2015 This research utilized data from the National Survey of American Life NSAL to examine the effect of discrimination on health among various sub groups in the black population African American and Afro Caribbean women and men The stress process model was used to investigate whether anger inflicted by discrimination had a negative impact on mental and physical health In addition the stress process model was also used to investigate protective influence of various forms of coping in face of such an unfair treatment Results indicated that anger inflicted by discrimination was indeed harmful for one s health consistently across the gender and ethnic subgroups in the black population except for Afro Caribbean men In addition the most common forms of coping were not necessarily helpful in reducing the negative impacts of discrimination on health or promoting health directly The importance of more systematic and long term focused research on coping with discrimination to reduce the negative health effects of anger is discussed Racism and Gay Men of Color Sulaimon Giwa, 2022-01-27 Sulaimon Giwa s aptly named Racism and Gay Men of Color arrives at a time when many of the sociocultural issues it raises have come to national attention Yet gay men of color in Canadian GLBT communities are still subject to racism and excluded both online and offline If a gay man of color is not the right color he is often the recipient of stereotypical racial epithets and denied sexual approbation within an erotic world where sexual desires are structured along the lines of race ethnicity age disability and class Giwa warns against the denial that underlies much of this monolithic racism and highlights the strategies used by gay men of color to counter racism in their communities and to lead strong effective lives This important book will inspire advocates and activists students and scholars and will become indispensable in university and college courses on sexuality and race studies The Relationship Between Racial Discrimination and Coping with Stress Mario V. Norman,1997 Escape the Cape, From Existing to Evolving Tasha M. Wilson,2025-12-01 Escape the Cape From Existing to Evolving Amplifying Voices of Black and Brown Women in the Mental Health Profession examines the narratives of Black and Brown women all over the world who adherently take on the Superwoman Persona Games and Play in HCI Kathrin Gerling,Ioanna Iacovides,Marc Herrlich,Z. O. Toups,2021-08-03 Emotional Expression and Health Ivan Nyklíček, Lydia Temoshok,2004-03 this book is timely given the growing scientific interest in the issue of the role of emotional expression in health and disease contributors are authoritative leaders of their field eg James Pennebaker Dept of Psychology University of Texas Guilford author draws on attachment theory currently a hot topic The Career Development Quarterly ,2009 Quotes for Coping with Discrimination Lucia Paravia,2023-08-18 This is a comforting Quote book for anyone coping with discrimination Offering insightful words to promote growth on a personal level In this thoughtfully assembled Quote book the reader will be inspired and find a new understanding of coping with discrimination Each quote s profound message guides the reader towards healing growth and positive change Ultimately coping with discrimination and creating a world where unity and acceptance triumph Drug Use Trajectories Among Minority Youth Yonette F. Thomas, LeShawndra N. Price,2016-09-01 This volume examines trajectories of drug use among ethnic minority youth in the United States with a focus on African Americans and Hispanics It also highlights what research designs have been employed to address these differences as well as suggests strategies for moving this discourse forward by identifying potential targets for prevention and intervention with minority youth This book features essays by leading experts in the field who have grappled with this issue for decades Inside readers will find an insightful dialogue that addresses such questions as Why are African American and Hispanic youth more likely than their White peers to abstain from drug use during adolescence but are more likely to become problem users later in life What impact does the stress caused by discrimination have on potential drug use To what extent does religiosity protect minority youth from drug use as past research suggests that it protects White youth What is the influence of neighborhood context on exposure to and use of substances among urban African American children Taken together the essays in this book identify underexplored risk and protective factors and gaps in the current state of knowledge that can be used to develop effective culturally specific drug abuse prevention strategies This book is for anyone with an interest in the initiation and escalation of drug use among African Americans and Hispanics Latinos and factors that influence these patterns over the life course It will also be an ideal resource for those interested in better understanding the mechanisms by which risk and protective factors are related to the development of drug use and addiction particularly the ways in which such factors contribute to health differences and have disproportionately more negative consequences for ethnic minorities Coping with Discrimination Andrew Philip Paves, 2016 Filipino Americans Fil Ams are currently the second largest Asian and Pacific Islander API American group in the United States Compared to other APIs Fil Ams are a suspected at risk group for problematic alcohol use Fil Ams also report experiencing discrimination at higher rates than other APIs and it has been hypothesized that alcohol use is a means to cope with discrimination Group identity the extent to which one identifies with a specific social group e g ethnic national may moderate the association between discrimination and health outcomes including problem drinking The present research examined the extent to which coping responses to discrimination are associated with alcohol related problems and whether different dimensions of group identity are related to this process The specific aims were to 1 develop measures for group identity and discrimination that accurately assess experiences of Fil Ams 2 pilot test the new measures for validity and reliability 3 assess the relations among discrimination coping and alcohol related problems and 4 assess the role of group identity as a potential moderator in the association between discrimination coping and alcohol use In accomplishing Aims 1 2 item development process and subsequent pilot testing N 390 resulted in two ethnic specific scales the Filipino American Microaggressions Scale FAMS and the Filipino American Identity Measure FilAmIM For Aims 3 4 moderated mediation analyses N 444 revealed a near significant indirect effect between perceived discrimination and alcohol related problems through avoidant coping in turn this mediating relationship was moderated by Filipino ethnic and American national identity The conditional indirect effect was strongest for individuals having an Assimilated Identity profile i e high in American and low in Filipino identity The findings highlight the need to consider multiple dimensions of group identity in understanding the relationship between discrimination and health the conditions one may utilize specific coping strategies in response and in understanding the efficacy of specific coping Overall the research addresses important knowledge gaps regarding the variability in alcohol use across specific API groups and the potential health effects of exposure to discrimination It provides the basis for developing culturally appropriate interventions to prevent and treat problematic drinking among Fil Ams as well as etiological research with other API subgroups African American Identity and the Psychological Well-being of Adolescents Cynthia E. Winston, 1997 Report on the World Social Situation, 2001 Coping Strategies Women Utilize in Dealing with Subtle Discrimination in Academe Karen Asquith, 1994 Coping with Perceived Discrimination Rachel Nicole Head, 2013 World Poverty Issues Marilyn M. Watkins, 2008 Poverty is a social fact of life for billions of people around the world The developed countries abhor poverty or seem to for several reasons Perhaps it is a blotch on their consciences Perhaps there is a genuine desire to help those who are not prospering while others around them are Perhaps they wish to pay lip service to the good cause of eliminating either poverty or the poor whichever comes first This new volume concentrates on world poverty issues including their alleviation "Sadinno Ti Papanam?"
