Coriell John M. O'Donnell,2002      Selling Science Stephen E. Mawdsley,2016-08-01 Today when many parents seem reluctant to have their children vaccinated even with long proven medications the Salk vaccine trial which enrolled millions of healthy children to test an unproven medical intervention seems nothing short of astonishing In Selling Science medical historian Stephen E Mawdsley recounts the untold story of the first large clinical trial to control polio using healthy children 55 000 healthy children revealing how this long forgotten incident cleared the path for Salk s later trial Mawdsley describes how in the early 1950s Dr William Hammon and the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis launched a pioneering medical experiment on a previously untried scale Conducted on over 55 000 healthy children in Texas Utah Iowa and Nebraska this landmark study assessed the safety and effectiveness of a blood component gamma globulin to prevent paralytic polio The value of the proposed experiment was questioned by many prominent health professionals as it harbored potential health risks but as Mawdsley points out compromise and coercion moved it forward And though the trial returned dubious results it was presented to the public as a triumph and used to justify a federally sanctioned mass immunization study on thousands of families between 1953 and 1954 Indeed the concept conduct and outcome of the GG study were sold to health professionals medical researchers and the public at each stage At a time when most Americans trusted scientists their mutual encounter under the auspices of conquering disease was shaped by politics marketing and at times deception Drawing on oral history interviews medical journals newspapers meeting minutes and private institutional records Selling Science sheds light on the ethics of scientific conduct and on the power of marketing to shape public opinion about medical experimentation      The Historiography of Contemporary Science, Technology, and Medicine Ronald E. Doel,Thomas Söderqvist,2006-10-02 Bringing together authorities on the history historiography and methodology of recent and contemporary science this book reviews the problems facing historians of technology contemporary science and medicine and explores new ways forward      Life on Ice Joanna Radin,2017-03-27 After the atomic bombing at the end of World War II anxieties about survival in the nuclear age led scientists to begin stockpiling and freezing hundreds of thousands of blood samples from indigenous communities around the world These samples were believed to embody potentially invaluable biological information about genetic ancestry evolution microbes and much more Today they persist in freezers as part of a global tissue based infrastructure In Life on Ice Joanna Radin examines how and why these frozen blood samples shaped the practice known as biobanking The Cold War projects Radin tracks were meant to form an enduring total archive of indigenous blood before it was altered by the polluting forces of modernity Freezing allowed that blood to act as a time traveling resource Radin explores the unique cultural and technical circumstances that created and gave momentum to the phenomenon of life on ice and shows how these preserved blood samples served as the building blocks for biomedicine at the dawn of the genomic age In an era of vigorous ethical legal and cultural debates about genetic privacy and identity Life on Ice reveals the larger picture how we got here and the promises and problems involved with finding new uses for cold human blood samples     Transactions & Studies of the College of Physicians of Philadelphia College of Physicians of Philadelphia,2000     American Book Publishing Record ,2002     Pharmacy in History ,2003     History of Science in America, News and Views ,2002     Bulletin of the History of Medicine American association for the history of medicine,Institute of the history of medicine (Baltimore, Md).,2003     Journal of the American Medical Association ,2003     Genetic Nature/Culture Prof. Alan H. Goodman,Prof. Deborah Heath,M. Susan Lindee,2003-11-06 The so called science wars pit science against culture and nowhere is the struggle more contentious or more fraught with paradox than in the burgeoning realm of genetics A constructive response and a welcome intervention this volume brings together biological and cultural anthropologists to conduct an interdisciplinary dialogue that provokes and instructs even as it bridges the science culture divide Individual essays address issues raised by the science politics and history of race evolution and identity genetically modified organisms and genetic diseases gene work and ethics and the boundary between humans and animals The result is an entree to the complicated nexus of questions prompted by the power and importance of genetics and genetic thinking and the dynamic connections linking culture biology nature and technoscience The volume offers critical perspectives on science and culture with contributions that span disciplinary divisions and arguments grounded in both biological perspectives and cultural analysis An invaluable resource and a provocative introduction to new research and thinking on the uses and study of genetics Genetic Nature Culture is a model of fruitful dialogue presenting the quandaries faced by scholars on both sides of the two cultures debate     America, History and Life ,2004 Article abstracts and citations of reviews and dissertations covering the United States and Canada     Internationale Bibliographie der Rezensionen wissenschaftlicher Literatur ,2003     Subject Guide to Books in Print ,1991     Books In Print 2004-2005 Ed Bowker Staff,Staff Bowker, Ed,2004     Coriell Institute ,2002     A Century of Science for Health Julie Clayton,2014     40 Years of Discovery 1962-2002 Alison Davis,2002     Index to Coryell/Coriell/Correll Research Compiled by N.
