Corinth Volume Xii The Minor Objects:

Corinth Gladys R. Davidson, 1952 Paul and Secular Singleness in 1 Corinthians 7 Barry N. Danylak, 2024-04-04 Paul's discussion of marriage and singleness in 1 Corinthians 7 has long presented exegetical challenges beginning with the chapter's opening statement 'It is good for a man not to touch a woman'. Interpreters continue to debate whether the ascetic language of the statement reflects the views of Paul or the Corinthians. They also debate the motivations for the rise of an ascetic movement in Corinth. In this ground-breaking study, Barry N. Danylak offers a fresh solution to these conundra. Using evidence from Egyptian census papyri, he demonstrates the prevalence of secular singleness in Roman urban environments. He also draws on classic Greek marriage debates to argue that the Corinthians' disposition likely reflected an Epicurean perspective of secular singleness and that Paul himself was responsible for the 'touch' language as a rhetorical adaptation in his response to the Corinthians' question. Combining fresh evidence with attentive analysis, Danylak's study thus proposes a viable resolution to these long-standing exegetical challenges. Corinth. Results of Excavations Conducted by the American School of Classical Studies at Athens. Vol. XII. The Minor Objects Gladys R. Davidson, 1952 Chalkis Aitolias II Sanne Houby-Nielsen, 2020-07-24 Homeric Chalkis is situated on the coast of Aetolia at the very gateway of the Gulf of Patras. The foundation occurred during an important period in early Greek history when trade and movement of peoples along the Gulf intensified with a resulting strong pull to the coast. Well-preserved stratigraphies date the foundation to the early seventh century BC and testify to a flourishing settlement in the sixth century lasting till the early fifth century BC when the site was temporarily given up. Walls and roads follow a rectilinear layout. A broad spectrum of pottery shapes and wares attest to innovative local and regional workshops already from the onset of the settlement. Alongside the pottery tools for complex textile manufacture were found in all houses among which were many small pyramidal loom weights and spools. These findings indicated a high degree of experimental weaving techniques and demonstrated how the courtyard house as a new house model was particularly well suited to accommodate this manufacture probably mantels. The results therefore offer important new evidence on relations between gender behaviour and Greek houses. The catalogue is richly illustrated with profile drawings, plans, black and white and colour photos and accompanied by discussions of the material. The Small Finds and Vessel Glass from Insula VI.1 Pompeii: Excavations 1995-2006 H.E.M. Cool, 2016-11-07 This report presents the vessel glass and small finds found during the excavations between 1995 and 2006 that took place in Insula VI.1 Pompeii henceforth VI.1. More than 5 000 items are discussed and the size of the assemblage has meant that the publication is in two parts. Excavations at Nichoria in Southwest Greece William A. McDonald, Nancy C. Wilkie, Through a Glass Brightly Chris Entwistle, 2016-09-28 The twenty-five papers in this volume cover diverse aspects of the material culture of the late Roman, Byzantine and Medieval periods with particular emphasis on the metalwork and enamel of these times. Individual papers include major reinterpretations of objects in the British Museum's Byzantine collections as well as essays devoted to the Museum's recent acquisitions in this field. The volume celebrates the retirement of David Buckton for over twenty years, the curator of the British Museum's Early Christian and Byzantine collections and the National Icon Collection.

History of the American School of Classical Studies at Athens, 1939-1980 Lucy Shoe Meritt, 1984. A chronicle of the second 50 years in the life of the American School originally founded in 1881. Conceived as a companion volume to Louis Lord's 1947 history of the first half century, the text outlines the activities of the School both in Greece and in the United States, beginning with an absorbing account of the affairs of the School during World War II and continuing through the Centennial in 1981 with chapters on the Summer Session, the School's excavations, its publications, and the Gennadeion. The extensive appendixes include lists of all the Trustees, Cooperating Institutions, members of the Managing Committee, staff, fellows, and members of the School since its inception in 1881, and add greatly to the usefulness of this volume. The author's first-hand knowledge of the people and events of the period discussed contributes materially to its depth and detail. The Byzantine Economy Angeliki E. Laiou, Cécile Morrisson, 2007-09-20. This is a concise survey of the economy of the Byzantine Empire from the fourth century AD to the fall of Constantinople in 1453. Organised chronologically, the book addresses key themes such as demography, agriculture, manufacturing, and the urban economy, trade, monetary developments, and the role of the state and ideology. It provides a comprehensive overview of the economy with an emphasis on the economic actions of the state and the productive role of the city and non-economic actors such as landlords, artisans, and money changers. The final chapter compares the Byzantine economy with the economies of western Europe and concludes that the Byzantine economy was one of the most successful examples of a mixed economy in the pre-industrial world. This is the only concise general history of the Byzantine economy and will be essential reading for students of economic history, Byzantine history, and medieval history more generally. The Classical Weekly, 1918.

Ancient Corinth American School of Classical Studies at Athens, 1954. The first guide to the excavations at Corinth was written by Rhys Carpenter in 1928, being based in part on an account that had been presented by Harold North Fowler in Art and Archaeology for October 1922. A second edition, revised by Professor Carpenter, appeared in 1933. This was revised again by Charles H. Morgan in 1936 and by Oscar Broneer in 1947. A fifth edition, essentially a reprinting of the fourth, was issued in 1951. Although excavations on a large scale have not been conducted during the past three years, knowledge of the site has been increased through the publication of several new studies. The earlier text of the guidebook has therefore been revised and augmented principally by Robert L. Scranton, working at Corinth, and a few illustrations have been added. Much of the greater part of the book, however, is drawn unchanged from the preceding edition. Preface John L. Caskey, Director. The Antique Bronzes Crişan Muşeteanu, 2004.
