Coronel And Falkland:

Coronel and Falkland Barrie Pitt,1960 Coronel and Falklands 1914 Michael McNally,2012-10-20 A highly illustrated account of the naval battles of Coronel and the Falklands in 1914 which saw the destruction of both British and German squadrons Upon the outbreak of war the British Royal Navy was deployed globally whilst the Imperial German Navy was concentrated in two areas Home Waters and Tsingtao the home port of the crack East Asia Cruiser Squadron which under the command of Admiral von Spee contained some of Germany s most modern cruisers As Spee made his way to the Chilean port of Valparaiso he met the British 4th Cruiser Squadron which had been ordered to engage and defeat the German force This resulted in the battle of Coronel where the antiquated British warships proved no match for Spee s modern cruisers It was the first naval defeat suffered by the Royal Navy in over 100 years When news reached London panic reigned and two ships HMS Inflexible and Invincible were sent to lead the force against Spee When bad weather delayed the German arrival Spee knew that he had to stand and fight unaware that amongst the ships opposing him were two modern battlecruisers which outclassed any of his own squadron s ships Given the presence of Inflexible and Invincible the result of the battle had an inevitable outcome and after several hours hard combat Spee s ships were defeated Coronel and Falkland ,1960

Coronel and the Falklands Geoffrey Bennett,1962 Account of the World War I British German naval battles off the coast of South America Sea Battles of Coronel and Falkland Islands, November/December 1914 ,1992 The Battles of Coronel and the Falklands Phil Carradice,2014 The Battles of Coronel and the Falklands British Naval Campaigns in the Southern Hemisphere 1914 15 tells the story of British cruiser warfare and naval strategy in the Southern Atlantic during the First World War This was the last naval campaign that was fought just by surface ships without the intrusion of modern technology such as aircraft submarines and mines German commerce raiders had been at large in the southern oceans since the declaration of war on 4 August 1914 and it was imperative that British forces should hunt and destroy them before they caused untold damage to British trade The campaign to bring a German squadron to battle met with disaster The Battle of Coronel before final victory at the Falkland Islands Individual raiders such as the Emden Dresden and Konigsburg were also hunted and destroyed in a fascinating series of actions where bravery and courage were displayed by both sides Coronel and Falkland Andrew Delbridge Osborn,1960 Coronel and Falkland. Revenge at Sea. With Plates. Barrie William PITT,1965 The Battles of Coronel and the Falkland Islands in 1914 Tony Walker,2014 Coronel and the Falklands Capt. Geoffrey Bennett,2017-07-11 On 1 November 1914 off the coast of Chile near Coronel ships of the German and British navies exchanged fire resulting in the sinking of two British ships HMS Monmouth and HMS Good Hope with the loss of nearly 1 600 sailors To counter the German squadron the Royal Navy sent two battle cruisers Inflexible and Invincible to the South Atlantic In December 1914 the British battle cruisers accompanied by smaller ships engaged the German squadron during the Battle of the Falkland Islands and sank the German armoured cruisers SMS Scharnhorst and SMS

Gneisenau near the Falkland Islands First published in 1962 this is a gripping account of the World War I British German naval battles off the coast of South America and an examination of the issue of Britain's preparation for naval warfare in 1914

Coronel and the Falkland Islands A. Neville Hilditch, 1915 Coronel Keith Phillips, 1938 Tragedy and Revenge Steve Dunn, 2025-10-30 The Battle of Coronel on 1 November 1914 when Rear Admiral Sir Christopher Cradock and ships of his 4th Cruiser Squadron were outgunned and outmatched by the German East Asiatic Squadron under Vice Admiral Maximilian Graf von Spee was the worst British naval disaster for more than 100 years two ships HMS Monmouth and Good Hope were lost with all hands totalling more than 1,600 men including Cradock He went to his death in a forlorn hope believing that if he could damage his opponent sufficiently to slow them down superior forces could eventually be brought to bear Admiral Sir John Jacky Fisher recently returned to the Admiralty as First Sea Lord immediately despatched two battlecruisers from the Grand Fleet to exact revenge under the command of Vice Admiral Doveton Sturdee whom he detested and half expected to fail in this mission And indeed Sturdee's force was surprised by von Spee's ships while coaling at the Falkland Islands but managed to get under way and perform the task for which Fisher had designed the battlecruisers sweeping from the seas lesser craft by virtue of superior speed and gun power The ships of the East Asiatic Squadron were sunk or scattered and von Spee and his two sons lost their lives Tragedy and Revenge details both the battles and the events leading up to them with the use of eye witness accounts It examines the ships which fought on both sides and points up the inferiority of the forces at Cradock's disposal resources which Churchill insisted were fit for the task of destroying von Spee The hopelessness felt by many of the Royal Navy participants in Cradock's little squadron is related as is Cradock's story alone in the Atlantic and Pacific and his crisis of conscience whilst staying with the governor of the Falkland Islands The book also examines the leaders Cradock Churchill Fisher Sturdee and von Spee and the interplay of character between them It demonstrates how Churchill's interference and the dispositions adopted by the Admiralty while Sturdee was Chief of the War Staff led directly to the disaster at Coronel The book evaluates the gap between the reality on the high seas and the perception held by those at the Admiralty especially Churchill and how this gap helped bring about a terrible tragedy The Battle Off Coronel. The Battle of the Falkland-Islands, 1915 Coronel and the Falkland Islands (Classic Reprint) A. Neville Hilditch, 2017-10-26 Excerpt from Coronel and the Falkland Islands The Glasgow swept round to northward calling to the flagship with her wireless Von Spee anticipating this move at once set his wireless in operation in order to jam the British signals Captain Luce soon picked up the Monmouth and the Otranto and the three ships raced northwards towards the flagship the Glasgow leading At about five o'clock the Good Hope was seen approaching The three ships wheeled into line behind her and the whole squadron now proceeded south Von Spee coming up from that direction in line ahead about twelve miles off changed his course and also proceeded south keeping nearer to the coast The wind was now blowing almost with the force of a hurricane So heavy was the sea that small boats would have been unable to keep a boat But the sky was not completely overcast and the sun was shining Firing had not opened The washing of the seas and the roaring of the wind deafened the air to other sounds The warship of today when her great turbines are whirling round at their highest speed moves without throb and almost without vibration through the waves The two squadrons drawing level the Germans nearer to the coast raced in the teeth of the gale in two parallel lines to the south About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books Find more at www.forgottenbooks.com This book is a reproduction of an important historical work Forgotten Books uses state of the art technology to digitally reconstruct the work preserving the original format whilst repairing imperfections present in the aged copy In rare cases an imperfection in the original such as a blemish or missing page may be replicated in our edition We do however repair the vast majority of imperfections successfully any imperfections that remain are intentionally left to preserve the state of such historical works

The Battles of Coronel and the Falklands, 1914 Geoffrey Bennett, 2014-03-31 A history of two South American World War I naval battles between Germany and Great Britain The defeat that Rear Admiral Sir Christopher Cradock suffered at Coronel in 1914 at the hands of Maximilian Graf von Spee one of Germany's most brilliant naval commanders was the most humiliating blow to British naval prestige since the eighteenth century and a defeat that had to be avenged immediately On 8 December 1914 the German squadron steamed towards Port Stanley unaware that in the harbour lay two great British battle cruisers the Invincible and Inflexible Realizing this Spee had no option but to turn and flee Hour by hour during that long day the British ships closed in until eventually Spee was forced to confront the enemy With extraordinary courage and against hopeless odds the German cruisers fought to the bitter end At five thirty that afternoon the last ship slowly turned and rolled to the bottom Cradock and Britain had been avenged
