John Horace Mariano

Dante And The City:

Dante and the City Catherine Keen,2003 From Florence to the Heavenly City Claire E. Honess,2017-07-05 Dante's political thought has long constituted a major area of interest for Dante studies yet the poet's political views have traditionally been considered a self-contained area of study and viewed in isolation from the poet's other concerns. Consequently the symbolic and poetic values which Dante attaches to political structures have been largely ignored or marginalised by Dante criticism. This omission is addressed here by Claire Honess whose study of Dante's poetry of citizenship focuses on more fundamental issues such as the relationship between the individual and the community, the question of what it means to be a citizen and above all the way in which notions of cities and citizenship enter the imagery and structure of the Commedia. The Makers of Florence: Dante, Giotto, Savonarola; and Their City ... With Portrait of Savonarola ... and Illustrations from Drawings by Professor Delamotte Mrs. Oliphant (Margaret),1876 The City and the Ocean I-Chun Wang,Jonathan White,2012-01-24 Throughout history cities have been locations of human encounter. Equally they have been contexts for the trade of goods and services for the evolution of various forms of urban space and for the production, development and enrichment of culture and technology. Many cities grew up along shorelines which themselves constitute some of the globe's most important cultural boundaries. For above all else it is water that has separated but also connected different communities, races, religions and nations down through recorded time. With the rapid advance in technologies of communication, encounters between cultures have multiplied at a rate that no individual can follow or control. The present book constitutes a space of memory in its own right, one of its chief reasons for being that a group of diverse scholars herein maps certain key encounters between peoples past as well as present and the urgent issues generated in consequence. No one person could have traced such diversity and made sense of it, whereas a scholarly grouping of persons reporting on phenomena from around the world such as is provided here offers its readers a vision of global change and development. With the twentieth and twenty-first centuries a new set of mega-cities in Asia, Africa and Latin America has emerged to challenge the primacy of European and North American metropolitan centres. This expanded landscape is here interpreted with special attention as already mentioned to cities located at coastlines, hence generally speaking more exposed to globalizing trends. Migrants, exiles and refugees, ethnic and racial minorities as well as alternative or countercultural groupings continue to complicate the ways in which cities articulate their now pluralized identities in terms of and by means of literature, history, architecture, social events and other forms of artistic and cultural production. The international scholars whose work is assembled in these pages are well placed to engage with the intersecting themes and issues of the volume. Contributors have mapped different examples from Homeric narrative through Renaissance drama and its representation of crossways of culture such as Rhodes and Malta to an earlier time in the development of a New World city such as Boston; others look at the twentieth and twenty-first centuries' complexity of great world cities and of oceanic migration or trade.

between them Shanghai Singapore London Detroit Shantou Macau and Saigon are some that are dealt with in detail Emphasis falls on both the historical reality of those contexts as well as how they have been culturally represented

Giaccardi,Matteo Tarantino,Simone Tosoni,2014-07-18 The percentage of people living in cities and the adoption rates of communication technologies continue to grow across the planet Our age has come to be defined as one of urbanism and communication but how are those two intertwined How do they shape each other Where and in which ways do they diverge support or fold into each other As new tensions emerge and old ones find new solutions social sciences are forced into a dialogue with media studies and urban studies in order to make sense of the new reality New theoretical and methodological paradigms are urgently needed and can be produced only through a fertile and eclectic dialogue This volume presents some of the latest research in this exciting cross disciplinary field Issues of conflict mobility crime art memory ethnicity identity and city marketing and branding come under rigorous scrutiny in their mutual and constitutive relationship with urban space and communicative technologies and practices The volume is divided into three broad sections The first section deals with the role of media in the social production of urban space that is with how media interact with other forces in giving shape to the materiality of the city The second section deals with how urban space acts as a context for a variety of media related practices especially in relation to the popularization of mobile geo localization technologies which have given us mass phenomena such as Foursquare The third and final section deals with how urban space is mediated and communicated through ICTs or in other terms how urban space is represented by specific media through specific discursive strategies
