saved by making hospitals earthquake resistant or using the funds for patient care What should scientists tell the public when as occurred in L Aquila Italy and Mammoth Lakes California there is a real but small risk of an upcoming earthquake or volcanic eruption Recent hurricanes earthquakes and tsunamis show that society often handles such choices poorly Sometimes nature surprises us when an earthquake hurricane or flood is bigger or has greater effects than expected from detailed hazard assessments In other cases nature outsmarts us doing great damage despite expensive mitigation measures or causing us to divert limited resources to mitigate hazards that are overestimated Much of the problem comes from the fact that formulating effective natural hazard policy involves combining science economics and risk analysis to analyze a problem and explore the costs and benefits of different options in situations where the future is very uncertain Because mitigation policies are typically chosen without such analysis the results are often disappointing This book uses general principles and case studies to explore how we can do better by taking an integrated view of natural hazards issues rather than treating the relevant geoscience engineering economics and policy formulation separately Thought provoking questions at the end of each chapter invite readers to confront the complex issues involved Readership Instructors researchers practitioners and students interested in geoscience engineering economics or policy issues relevant to natural hazards Suitable for upper level undergraduate or graduate courses Additional resources can be found at <http://www.wiley.com/go/SteinPlayingagainstnature>

Hollywood Science S. Perkowitz, Sidney Perkowitz, 2007 In this book a scientist and dedicated film enthusiast discusses the portrayal of science in more than one hundred films including science fiction scientific biographies and documentaries Beginning with early films like Voyage to the Moon and Metropolis and concluding with more recent offerings like The Matrix War of the Worlds A Beautiful Mind and An Inconvenient Truth Sidney Perkowitz questions how much faith we can put into Hollywood's depiction of scientists and their work how accurately these films capture scientific fact and theory whether cataclysms like our collision with a comet can actually happen and to what extent these films influence public opinion about science and the future Bringing together history scientific theory and humorous observation Hollywood Science features dozens of film stills and a list of the all time best and worst science fiction movies Dante's British Public Nick Havely, 2014-07-24 This is the first account of Dante's reception in English to address full chronological span of that process Individual authors and periods have been studied before but Dante's British Public takes a wider and longer view using a selection of vivid and detailed case studies to record and place in context some of the wider conversations about and appropriations of Dante that developed in Britain across more than six centuries as access to his work extended and diversified Much of the evidence is based on previously unpublished material in for example letters journals annotations and inventories and is drawn from archives in the UK and across the world from Milan to Mumbai and from Berlin to Cape Town Throughout the role of Anglo Italian cultural contacts and intermediaries in shaping the public understanding of Dante in Britain is given prominence from clerics and merchants around Chaucer's time through itinerant scholars collectors and tourists in the early modern period to the exiles and expatriates of the nineteenth and twentieth centuries The final chapter brings the story up to the present showing how the poet's work has been seen from the fourteenth century onwards as accessible to the many and demonstrating some of the means by which Dante has reached a yet wider British public over the past century particularly through translation illustration and various forms of performance Dantes Peak Pierce Brosnan, Roger Donaldson, Jeremy Foley, Linda Hamilton, Elizabeth Hoffman, Jamie Renée Smith, 1996 Catalogue of Title-entries of Books and Other Articles Entered in the Office of the Librarian of Congress, at Washington, Under the Copyright Law ...
