but sparsely timbered Indeed the entire supply of timber could be removed without in the least affecting the flow of the river The reason for the practically constant volume between Benham Falls and the mouth of Crooked River is mainly because the river is bordered throughout a part of its course in this section by cellular lava which receives the waters that would otherwise cause increase of stage Although the winter temperatures are low ice does not affect the flow of the streams for the winter flow is derived largely from springs The high stages usually occur in July and result from the melting of snows in the mountains although occasionally floods are caused by chinooks in the early spring or late fall About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books Find more at www.forgottenbooks.com This book is a reproduction of an important historical work Forgotten Books uses state of the art technology to digitally reconstruct the work preserving the original format whilst repairing imperfections present in the aged copy In rare cases an imperfection in the original such as a blemish or missing page may be replicated in our edition We do however repair the vast majority of imperfections successfully any imperfections that remain are intentionally left to preserve the state of such historical works
