Product designers work to optimize the user experience in the solutions they make for the clients. In order for them to be able to better differentiate between design options and prototypes, they can call for help the parameters whose assessment can lead them to the overall rating of their design and thus facilitate the decision which design has the upper hand compared to the alternatives.

A life cycle decision framework of China offshore wind turbines with ANP-Intuitionistic fuzzy TOPSIS method Jiaxuan Zhou,Liming Wang,Fangyi Li,Chunli Ge,Jianfeng Li,Yitong Wang,Lin Kong,Jing Guo,2024-03-18 In China offshore wind energy is a popular source of green energy Selecting offshore wind turbine design schemes is a decision problem based on multiple criteria However the selection is hardly made from the point of view of the life cycle due to the complex association of evaluation criteria especially in the conceptual design stage To solve this problem a new multi criteria decision making framework for selecting the life cycle design scheme of offshore wind turbines is designed The design information of the life cycle process of these turbines is expressed using Function Structure Material Process Transportation model in this framework The life cycle evaluation index system of offshore wind turbines was established and mapped with this model to carry out rapid evaluation of various schemes In light of this an intuitive fuzzy Technique for Order of Preference by Similarity to Ideal Solution TOPSIS method based on analytic network process ANP was proposed to process fuzzy decision information and establish criteria correlation Finally a case study was conducted and sensitivity and comparative analyses were carried out The proposed method can effectively select the optimal scheme from six different design schemes for the life cycle of offshore wind turbines Sustainable Solar

Housing S. Robert Hastings, Maria Wall, 2012-06-25 This far reaching and authoritative two volume set examines a range of potential solutions for low energy building design considering different strategies energy conservation and renewable energy and technologies relating to the building envelope ventilation heat delivery heat production heat storage electricity and control Energy and life cycle impacts are considered as crucial factors including passive and active solar use daylighting and high efficiency conventional heat production Each volume assesses the potential of these options in a variety of contexts covering different housing types apartment row and detached in cold temperate and mild climates The impressive list of expert authors from 14 countries includes a mix of internationally respected academics and practitioners working together within the framework of a five year International Energy Agency IEA research project Volume 1 presents strategies and solutions offering the reader a solid basis for developing concepts considering environmental and economic concerns for housing projects in a variety of contexts Volume 2 offers a detailed analysis of exemplary buildings in different European countries and examines the various technologies employed to achieve their remarkable performance Aided by clear full colour illustrations it offers invaluable insights into the application of these technologies Sustainable Solar Housing
