Place Making in International Practice of Landscape

Architecture Yun Zhang, 2021-06-25 This book explores international practice in landscape architecture focusing on the provision of services from Australia to China during China's contemporary urbanization and Australian landscape architects' approaches to place. Landscape architectural practice requires planners and designers to have a deep understanding of local culture, site characteristics, craftsmanship, and even project procedures that are often intangible. How to acquire the above local knowledge has become a major challenge for international teams. Through the survey of the practice of Australian landscape practices in China and the case study of Li Lake planning and design project, this book reveals the process and difficulties of landscape planning and design as a transnational practice as well as its special value as a way of cross-cultural fertilization. This book is intended for students, practitioners, and researchers in the fields of landscape architecture, architecture, and urban planning.

From Design Policy to Design Quality Matthew Carmona, John V. Punter, David Chapman, 2002 A framework for design policies. The design dimension of planning. The process of design policy writing. The fundamentals of design policy. Key aspects of design policy coverage. Writing, implementing, and monitoring design policies. Other influences on improving design quality. Selected sources of further advice.

Planning Law and Practice in Northern Ireland Stephen McKay, Michael Murray, 2022-10-24 Each of the jurisdictions within the United Kingdom is constantly refining the operational characteristics of its planning system, and while there are some common practices, there are also substantive divergences. In each territory, the planning template is shaped within a dynamic political and legal context, and thus students and practitioners require an accessible, in-depth, and up-to-date literature dealing with this matter. The multi-disciplinary contributors to this expanded Second Edition of Planning Law and Practice in Northern Ireland explore the progression of planning within the region and discuss prominent facets of contemporary development management: development plans, environmental law, property law, and professional practice. Consideration is given to the consequences of Brexit for planning in Northern Ireland, devolved government institutional structures for planning, and the post-2015 emergent performance of local authorities in this arena. The book makes an important contribution to the wider literature in this field and, with its extensive citing of statutes and cases, provides an essential resource for students, practitioners, and researchers.
