Desafios Para America Latina En El Tercer Milenio:

Desafios para el tercer milenio, 1997 Fear and Crime in Latin America Lucía Dammert, 2012-10-02 The feeling of insecurity is a little known phenomenon that has been only partially explored by social sciences However it has a deep social cultural and economic impact and may even contribute to define the very structures of the state In Latin America fear of crime has become an important stumbling block in the region s process of democratization After long spells of dictatorships and civil wars violence in the region was supposed to be under control yet crime rates have continued to skyrocket and citizens remain fearful This analytical puzzle has troubled researchers and to date there is no publication which explores this problem Based on a wealth of cutting edge qualitative and quantitative research Luc a Dammert proposes a unique theoretical perspective which includes a sociological criminological and political analysis to understand fear of crime She describes its linkages to issues such as urban segregation social attitudes institutional trust public policies and authoritarian discourses in Chile s recent past Looking beyond Chile Dammert also includes a regional comparative perspective allowing readers to understand the complex elements underpinning this situation Fear and Crime in Latin America challenges many assumptions and opens an opportunity to discuss an issue that affects everyone with key societal and personal costs As crime rates increase and states become even more fragile fear of crime as a social problem will continue to have an important impact in Latin America Indigenous and Afro-Ecuadorians Facing the Twenty-First Century Marc Becker, 2014-10-16 The South American country of Ecuador provides a fascinating case study for understanding the construction and emergence of race and ethnic identities While themes of ethnic identities indigeneity and race relations are commonly examined in our respective disciplines it is less common to bring together essays with from scholars from such a broad variety of disciplines The papers collected in this volume provide an opportunity to explore indigeneity in comparative perspective with the rest of the region as well as to highlight the historically important but understudied Afro Ecuadorian perspectives The essays in this volume break out of the common tropes and themes that scholars typically employ in their studies of race and ethnicity in Ecuador In examining Afro Ecuadorians and Indigenous peoples through the lens of politics culture religion gender and environmental concerns we come to a better understanding of the problems and promises facing this country These essays convey a large diversity of perspectives disciplines and issues that reflect the richness and complexities of the social processes that are present in Ecuador El tercer milenio como desafio pastoral Catholic Church. Consejo Episcopal Latinoamericano, 1998 Globalization and the Decolonial Option Walter D. Mignolo, Arturo Escobar, 2013-10-18 This is the first book in English profiling the work of a research collective that evolved around the notion of colonality understood as the hidden agenda and the darker side of modernity and whose members are based in South America and the United States The project called for an understanding of modernity not from modernity itself but from its darker side colonality and proposes the de colonization of knowledge as an epistemological restitution with political and ethical implications Epistemic decolonization or de coloniality becomes the horizon to imagine and act toward global futures in which the notion of a political enemy is replaced by intercultural communication and towards an other rationality that puts life first and that places institutions at its service rather than the other way around The volume is profoundly inter and trans disciplinary with authors writing from many intellectual transdisciplinary and institutional spaces This book was published as a special issue of Cultural Studies

Indianizing Film Freya Schiwy, 2009-04-22 Latin American indigenous media production has recently experienced a noticeable boom specifically in Bolivia Ecuador and Colombia Indianizing Film zooms in on a selection of award winning and widely influential fiction and docudrama shorts analyzing them in the wider context of indigenous media practices and debates over decolonizing knowledge Within this framework Freya Schiwy approaches questions of gender power and representation Schiwy argues that instead of solely creating entertainment through their work indigenous media activists are building communication networks that encourage interaction between diverse cultures As a result mainstream images are retooled permitting communities to strengthen their cultures and express their own visions of development and modernization Indianizing Film encourages readers to consider how indigenous media contributes to a wider understanding of decolonization and anticolonial study against the universal backdrop of the twenty first century

Comparative Education: Views from Latin America Marco Aurelio Navarro Leal, 2013-05-09 Although in Latin America there are no educational programs specialized in comparative education as there are in some European Oriental and North American universities there are scholars who cultivate this field With the production of this book the authors most of them affiliated to member organizations of the World Council of Comparative Education Societies are walking towards a Latin American network of researchers with an interest in establishing a dialogue with non Spanish speaking colleagues from the rest of the world This is the reason of our effort in writing most of the chapters in English Comparative education as all disciplinary fields has evolved with different ways of thinking approaching and constructing its objects of research and analysis which are nurtured by different epistemological traditions living together in our times enriching and bringing complexities From Argentina Chile Uruguay Brazil Peru Venezuela Costa Rica and Mexico the authors of the book pose questions historical descriptions reflections discussions and cases to set forth their views

McNelly,2023-06-06 During the first decade of the century Evo Morales and other leftists took control of governments across Latin America In the case of Bolivia Morales was that country s first Indigenous president and was elected following five years of popular insurrection after decades of neoliberal governance Now We Are in Power makes the argument that the so called Pink Tide should be understood as a passive revolution a process that has two phases a period of subaltern struggle from average citizens strong enough to culminate in a political crisis which is followed by a time of reconciliation and transformation Angus McNelly examines this movement as it unfolded and evaluates how passive revolution plays out over a prolonged crisis ultimately demonstrating the inherent contradictions and complications of the process Los desafíos a la nueva evangelización en América Latina y el Caribe, en el contexto de la globalización mundial Catholic Church. Consejo Episcopal Latinoamericano. Secretariado General,2002 Neoliberalism and Urban Development in Latin America

Camillo Boano,Francisco Vergara-Perucich,2017-08-15 In the 1970s and following on from the deposition of Salvador Allende the Chilean dictatorship of Augusto Pinochet installed a radical political and economic system by force which lent heavy privilege to free market capitalism reduced the power of the state to its minimum and actively suppressed civil society Chicago economist Milton Friedman was heavily involved in developing this model and it would be hard to think of a clearer case where ideology has shaped a country over such a long period That ideology is still very much with us today and has come to be defined as neoliberalism This book charts the process as it developed in the Chilean capital Santiago and involves a series of case studies and reflections on the city as a neoliberal construct The variegated technocratic and post authoritarian aspects of the neoliberal turn in Chile serve as a cultural and political milieu Through the work of urban scholars architects activists and artists a cacophony of voices assemble to illustrate the existing neoliberal urbanism of Santiago and its irreducible tension between polis and civitas in the specific context of omnipresent neoliberalism Chapters explore multiple aspects of the neoliberal delirium of Santiago observing the antagonists of this scheme reviewing the insurgent emergence of alternative and contested practices and suggesting ways forward in a potential post neoliberal city Refusing an essentialist call Neoliberalism and Urban Development in Latin America offers an alternative understanding of the urban conditions of Santiago It will be essential reading to students of urban development neoliberalism and urban theory and well as architects urban planners geographers anthropologists economists philosophers and sociologists G.K.
