ENGLISH DESCRIPTION Mindfulness for the little ones. Teach your children how to direct their emotions and listen to themselves. Exercising our children's minds should be as important as caring for their body. This book will help us teach our children a new way of seeing the world which will help them control their emotions through mindfulness techniques tailored to their ages and personalities. Without realizing it, the hectic pace of everyday life affects our children's emotional development in a devastating way. With the goal of helping our children manage their emotions, identify and understand their own feelings and improve their attention skills, Teresa Morón, after many years of teaching children and teenagers, will guide us through the journey of mindfulness through stories and concrete accounts. In addition, Teresa includes special chapters for more difficult situations such as bullying. Based on her suggestions, readers will be able to create their own mindfulness program adjusted for each individual child. The little ones will learn to look for happiness within themselves and to organize their thoughts in a way to bring the focus to the here and now.
