Desert Screen War At The Speed Of Light:

Desert Screen Paul Virilio, 2005-06-30 Desert Screen is a vision of future war Paul Virilio identifies the Gulf War as a turning point in history the last industrial and the first information war Virilio argues that we live in a world still exhausted from the geopolitics of the Cold War a world in which the politics of military and media technology seem to preclude the possibility of negotiation and diplomacy This new translation of an already classic text includes a new interview with Virilio in which he looks back at a decade of war at the speed of light Paul Virilio Reader Steve Redhead, 2019-08-07 This Reader collects together for the first time extracts of Virilio's work from the entire range of his career Virilio has produced important theory at the speed of light that can uncannily illuminate the impact of new information and communications technologies in a world which collapses time and distance as never before The Virtual Window Anne Friedberg, 2009-02-13 From the Renaissance idea of the painting as an open window to the nested windows and multiple images on today's cinema television and computer screens a cultural history of the metaphoric literal and virtual window As we spend more and more of our time staring at the screens of movies televisions computers and handheld devices windows full of moving images texts and icons how the world is framed has become as important as what is in the frame In The Virtual Window Anne Friedberg examines the window as metaphor as architectural component and as an opening to the dematerialized reality we see on the screen In De pictura 1435 Leon Battista Alberti famously instructed painters to consider the frame of the painting as an open window Taking Alberti's metaphor as her starting point Friedberg tracks shifts in the perspectival paradigm as she gives us histories of the architectural window developments in glass and transparency and the emerging apparatuses of photography cinema television and digital imaging Single point perspective Alberti's metaphorical window has long been challenged by modern painting modern architecture and moving image technologies And yet notes Friedberg for most of the twentieth century the dominant form of the moving image was a single image in a single frame The fractured modernism exemplified by cubist painting for example remained largely confined to experimental avant garde work On the computer screen however where multiple windows coexist and overlap perspective may have met its end In this wide ranging book Friedberg considers such topics as the framed view of the camera obscura Le Corbusier's mandates for the architectural window Eisenstein's opinions on the shape of the movie screen and the multiple images and nested windows commonly displayed on screens today The Virtual Window proposes a new logic of visuality framed and virtual an architecture not only of space but of time

Terrorism and Temporality in the Works of Thomas Pynchon and Don DeLillo James Gourley, 2013-06-06 Terrorism and Temporality in the Works of Thomas Pynchon and Don DeLillo starts from a simple premise that the events of the 11th of September 2001 must have had a major effect on two New York residents and two of the seminal authors of American letters Pynchon and DeLillo By examining implicit and explicit allusion to these events in their work it becomes apparent that both consider 9/11 a crucial event and that it has profoundly impacted their work From this important point the volume focuses on the major change identifiable in both authors work a change in the perception and conception of time This is not however a simple change after 2001 It allows at the same time a re examination of both authors work and the acknowledgment of time as a crucial concept to both authors throughout their careers Engaging with several theories of time and their reiteration and examination in both authors work this volume contributes both to the understanding of literary time and to the work of Pynchon and DeLillo

Efficiencies of Slowness Rachel Anderson-Rabel,2011 This project focuses on the process and performance of three contemporary collective creation groups Goat Island Elevator Repair Service and Nature Theater of Oklahoma I draw processual and aesthetic connections between collective creation methodologies and the consequences of those methodologies in performance claiming that processes leave footprints that are ultimately visible to audiences though their visibility requires new ways of seeing Taking into account an American genealogy of collective creation I outline the footprints of method through the images of everyday employment instances of untrained bodies enacting danced gesture and the speeds and velocities that characterize the work of these three contemporary groups Through these aesthetics we can locate evidence of methodological principles that constitute a politics In the work of Goat Island Elevator Repair Service and Nature Theater of Oklahoma this politics does not play out through the ideological content of performance but is embedded within collaborative acts of making

Light and Photomedia Jai McKenzie,2020-09-02 Light and Photomedia proposes that regardless of technological change the history and future of photomedia is essentially connected to light It is a fundamental property of photomedia binding with space and time to form and inform new explicitly light based structures and experiences Jai McKenzie identifies light space time structures throughout the history of photomedia from the early image machines through analogue and digital image machines to the present day She proposes that they will continue to develop in the future and takes us to future image machines of the year 2039 With the use of the theories of Paul Virilio Jean Baudrillard and Vilem Flusser featuring artists including Henri Cartier Bresson Nam June Paik Yves Klein Eadweard Muybridge Martha Rosler Cindy Sherman and Michael Snow as well as their photographic images Light and Photomedia places the reader in a new history and future which although mostly overlooked by the canon of photomedia theory is an essential line of enquiry for contemporary thinking and dialogue in photography

How to Read Superhero Comics and Why Geoff Klock,2002-09-06 Superhero comic books are traditionally thought to have two distinct periods two major waves of creativity the Golden Age and the Silver Age In simple terms the Golden Age was the birth of the superhero proper out of the pulp novel characters of the early 1930s and was primarily associated with the DC Comics Group Superman Batman Green Lantern and Wonder Woman are the most famous creations of this period In the early 1960s Marvel Comics launched a completely new line of heroes the primary figures of the Silver Age the Fantastic Four Spider Man the Incredible Hulk the X Men the Avengers Iron Man and Daredevil In this book Geoff Klock presents a study of the Third Movement of superhero comic books He avoids at all costs the temptation to refer to this movement as Postmodern Deconstructionist or something equally tedious Analyzing the works of Frank Miller Alan Moore Warren Ellis and Grant Morrison among others and taking his cue from Harold Bloom Klock unearths the birth of self consciousness in the superhero narrative and guides us through an intricate world of traditions influences nostalgia and innovations a world where comic books do indeed become literature Trevor Paglen John P. can inflict on another is war Wars cause misery on an indescribable scale Yet we go on doing it to one another generation after generation Why Warfare is a recurrent and universal characteristic of human existence The mythologies of practically all peoples abound in wars and the superhuman deeds of warriors and pre literate communities apparently delighted in the recital of stories about battles Since our species became literate a mere 5 000 years ago written history has mostly been the history of wars Thousands who knew war evidently sickened of it and dreamt of lasting peace expressing their vision in literature and art in philosophy and religion They imagined Utopias freed of martial ambition and bloodshed which harked back to the Golden Age of classical antiquity to the Christian vision of a paradise lost and to the Arcadia of Greek and Latin poetry so richly celebrated in the canvases of Claude and Poussin All these things bear eloquent testimony to the human longing for peace but they have not triumphed over our dreadfully powerful propensity to war from the Introduction by Anthony Stevens In this multi disciplinary collection of essays on the manifestations of war in poetry fiction drama music and documentaries scholars and practitioners from an international context describe the transformation of the war experience into chronicles of hope and despair from Herodotus up to the present day
