Design In Nature Learning From Trees:

Design in Nature Claus Mattheck, 1998-01-28 This book describes and verifies external shape laws in nature not only valid for trees but also a variety of other things such as bones claws and thorns It shows how growing structures repair their disturbed optimum design after damage has occurred Computer simulations of these load adaptive growths are used to find an ideal ecological engineering design characterized by minimum weight and maximum strength

Design in Nature Claus Mattheck, 2004 This book is dedicated to the understanding of biomechanical optimization of shape and not only that With the knowledge of these perfect processes of self optimization in nature techniques for the improvement of mechanical structural members could be developed Industry already uses them Nature shows us the way to eco design to machines in accordance with nature's laws governing structures and shapes

Flow Phenomena in Nature: Inspiration, learning and application R. Liebe, 2007 Do we have an adequate understanding of fluid dynamics phenomena in nature and evolution and what physical models do we need What can we learn from nature to stimulate innovations in thinking as well as in engineering applications Concentrating on flight and propulsion this unique and accessible book compares fluid dynamics solutions in nature with those in engineering The respected international contributors present up to date research in an easy to understand manner giving common viewpoints from fields such as zoology engineering biology fluid mechanics and physics This transdisciplinary approach eliminates barriers and opens wider perspectives to both of the challenging questions above Contents Applications in Engineering and Medicine Inspiration from Nature Steady and Unsteady Fluid Dynamics Specific Numerical and Experimental Methods

African Perspectives on the Teaching and Learning of English in Higher Education Alexandra Esimaje, Bertus van Rooy, 'Demola Jolayemi, Daniel Nkemleke, Ernest Klu, 2023-05-23 This book brings together the work of African scholars and educators directly involved in initiatives to improve the teaching and learning of English in higher education across Africa Offering alternative perspectives across different African countries with examples of decolonised practice in research the book provides a critical discussion and examples of successful practice in the teaching of English in Africa Each chapter of the book reports on a specific context and a specific teaching and or learning initiative in higher education with emphasis on comparability of information and on clear evaluation and critical analysis of the intervention The editors offer a thoughtful comparison of different methods strategies and results to provide an authoritative reference to effective strategies for English teaching and learning The book paints a cohesive picture of the field of English language teaching in Africa and will be of great interest to researchers scholars and postgraduate students in the areas of applied linguistics English teaching and comparative education

Optimisation Mechanics in Nature David G. Hunt, M. W. Collins, 2004 This book provides a detailed exploration of the ways in which natural materials grow and the relevance of these for engineering applications Presenting the natural man made interface in depth and from various aspects the text consists of a collection of research chapters all written by specialists in biomimetics These explore the differences in growth mechanisms for two key materials wood and bone Three chapters examine the processes by which trees grow and possible applications to engineering materials while a further two concentrate on the direct use of wood in engineering There are also two contributions on the way in which bones grow and their repair mechanism A detailed exploration of the behaviour and use of two major naturally occurring solids wood and bone and their relevance for engineering applications The chapters are written by international specialist in the field

Manmade Modular Megastructures Ian Abley, Jonathan Schwinge, 2006-04-07

There will be 8.3 billion human beings on Earth by 2030 and the more the better We have the opportunity to create a world of expansive megacities including one around old London Doing so will advance the art science and processes of manufacturing But to deploy those abilities we must shrug off the dogma of sustainability that insists only small can be beautiful Humanity has come a long way since the first modular mega structure was built at Ur on land that is now Iraq There four millennia ago and by hand the Sumerians built a mud brick ziggurat to their Gods Today the green deities of Nature we have invented for ourselves are worshipped with humility Eco zealots argue against the mechanised megaforming of landscape and the modularised production of megastructures The guest editors Jonathan Schwinge and Ian Abley of the London based research organisation audacity call for development on a bold scale They argue that by rapidly super sizing the built environment society is not made vulnerable to natural or man made hazards and that design innovation surpasses bio mimicry Designers can learn from materials scientists working at the smallest of scales and from systems manufacturers with ambitions at the largest This issue calls for creative thinking about typologies and topologies and considers what that also means for Africa China and Russia Megacities everywhere demand integration of global systems of transport utilities and IT in gigantic structures constantly upgraded scraping both the sky and the ground outward into the sea Journal of Experimental Biology ,2005 Nature and Young Children Ruth A.
