Youth Activism in Environmental Politics, 2nd Edition Matt Henn, Sarah Pickard, 2023-02-02

Recently important new research has emerged to explain the large intergenerational cleavages in values and political preferences in many contemporary societies In most established democracies and many newer democracies young people are more likely to possess progressive values and are much more cosmopolitan in their outlook socially liberal accepting of cultural diversity and outward looking than older generations They tend to reject mainstream electoral politics and authoritarian nationalist forms of populism in favour of alternative progressive political parties and movements Indeed there is burgeoning evidence of a global tendency towards young people s support for and participation in new styles of non institutionalised political action that seem to better fit their life styles and to permit the actualisation of their political aspirations Although there is a considerable body of existing literature that examines the rise of such values and political participation preferences there is little work that focuses on the relationship with the prioritisation of environmental issues and environmental activism as evidenced in the September 2019 global climate strikes The goal of the current Research Topic is to explore the contemporary realities and patterns of youth participation in environmental politics in different societies As such we welcome manuscripts of original research and conceptualization that address the different practices of youth as they seek to effect environmental change and also their motivations for doing so Contributions are welcome from scholars youth practitioners and activists operating in a range of different settings and using diverse disciplinary and multidisciplinary and interdisciplinary perspectives

AI in Social Studies Education Christopher H. Clark, Cathryn van Kessel, 2025

The introduction of widely available generative AI tools has caused a frenzy of both positive and negative reactions Between utopian visions and apocalyptic predictions of AI s impact on education there is a need to thoughtfully consider what education in the age of AI can and should look like This volume focuses on the implications of AI technology for teachers in K 12 and university settings providing a careful look at its affordances and drawbacks for social studies curriculum and teaching Scholars specializing in the field of social studies education provide information and practical ideas for teaching with current technology alongside frameworks for thinking about future iterations of AI This book fills a critical need especially among educators to consider the current and potential future impacts of AI while avoiding the traps of alarmism or techno utopianism Whether skeptical or enthusiastic about AI every social studies educator will find something useful to their practice in this book

Book Features First ever compilation of AI considerations and strategies in the context of social studies education Nontechnical explanations of what AI can do and not do in practical educational contexts to enable educators to approach its use with careful judgment Advice for educators to help them assess future iterations of AI technology Critical considerations of AI across multiple contexts e g ethics equity multilingual learners cybersecurity Work
