Haight, 2005-03-17 Ecclesiology from below as it operates in this work is directed to history it moves through the actual church of history to ecclesiology or to an understanding of the church both as it is and as it should be In the first volume that passage was fairly explicit because comprehensive ecclesiologies in our sense did not exist In this volume ecclesiology itself becomes much more directly the subject matter of the book but without losing sight of concrete history and the degree to which these ecclesiologies are historically conditioned Put somewhat differently the main goal of this comparative ecclesiology is not simply to lay down one after another different ecclesiologies that emerged over the last five hundred years although that describes the book with empirical accuracy Its larger intent is to show the richness vitality and creativity of the whole church as it moves through history adjusting to new times places and cultures      India and the Indianness of Christianity Robert Eric Frykenberg, Richard Fox Young, 2009 Honoring historian Robert Eric Frykenberg arguably the historian most responsible for promoting studies of intercultural and interreligious interactions in the South Asian context the essays in this collection avoid the pitfall of Eurocentric top down historiographies and instead adopt and adapt Frykenberg's own Eurocentric bottom up approach this accentuating indigenous agency in the emergence of Christianity as an Indian religion The book features first time case studies on Christianity in a variety of unusual Indian settings including tribal societies and offers original contributions to an understanding of how Indian Christianity was perceived in the post Independence period by India's governing elite Several essayists draw heavily on rare archival documentation in the United Kingdom Germany and India The wealth of material and the perspectives gathered here constitute a remarkable volume a credit to the historian who inspired it from back cover      The Routledge Companion to the Christian Church Gerard Mannion, Lewis S.
