Understanding Žižek, Understanding Modernism Jeffrey R. Di Leo, Zahi Zalloua, 2022-11-03 Slavoj Žižek is one of today's leading theorists whose polemical works span topics from German idealism to Lacanian psychoanalysis from Shakespeare to Beckett and from Hitchcock to Lynch Critical through and through of both post modern ideological complacencies e.g. the death of the subject and the return to ethics and pre modern ones e.g. the re-enchantment of the world the embrace of postcritique Žižek doubles down on the virtues of the modern on what it means to be modern and to ask modern questions about the subject nature and political economy in the age of the Anthropocene This volume takes up the challenges laid out by Žižek's iconoclastic thinking and its reverberations in an array of fields philosophy psychoanalysis political theory literary studies and film studies among others Žižek's multi-disciplinary appeal attests to the provocation if not scandal of his politically incorrect thought Understanding Žižek Understanding Modernism makes the force and inventiveness of Žižek's writings accessible to a wide range of students and scholars invested in the open question of modernism and its legacies Christian Apologetics Walter Warren Seton, 1903 A Philosophy of Christian Materialism Christopher

Baker, Thomas A. James, John Reader, 2016-03-09 A Philosophy of Christian Materialism offers a new religious engagement with the public sphere via means of interdisciplinary analysis and empirical examples developing what the authors call a Relational Christian Realism building upon interaction with contemporary Philosophy of Religion The book argues that the current discourse on public religion is inadequate in addressing the issues now to be faced including material religious practice in the sphere of education the growth of alternative political movements and the developing awareness of environmental concerns and urban social justice Key concepts that support this strategic analysis are entangled fidelities the form of a materialist religious practice the possibility of a relational Christian realism including new developments in how we interpret key categories of doctrine including God and creation salvation and humanity and the post secular public sphere including the emerging phenomenon of postsecular rapprochement namely the coming together of both religious and secular actors in methodologies and politics of pragmatism as well as ethical discourse for the sake of the public commons Co authored by theologians in both the USA and the UK this book represents an exciting contribution to philosophy and practice of religion on both sides of the Atlantic and aspires to be sufficiently interdisciplinary to also appeal to readerships engaged in the study of modern political and social trends Ethics and the Materialist Conception of History Karl Kautsky,1918

True Materialism; a Suggestion for the Harmonising of Modern Materialism with Christian Theism Joseph Henry Barker,1876 God Incarnate Oliver D. Crisp,2009-08-06 The doctrine of the incarnation is one of the central and defining dogmas of the Christian faith In this text Oliver Crisp builds upon his previous work Divinity and Humanity The Incarnation Reconsidered Cambridge 2007 In God Incarnate he explores the Incarnation further and covers issues he did not deal with in his previous book This work attempts to further the project of setting out a coherent account of the Incarnation by considering key facets of this doctrine as parts of a larger integrated doctrinal whole Throughout he is concerned to develop a position in line with historic Christianity that is catholic and ecumenical in tone in line with the contours of the Reformed theological tradition within which his own work falls And like its predecessor this book will draw upon philosophical and theological resources to make sense of the problems the doctrine faces Christian Atheism Slavoj Žižek,2024-04-04 If we want to be true atheists do we have to begin with a religious edifice and undermine it from within Slavoj Žižek has long been a commentator on and critic of Christian theology His preoccupation with Badiou's concept of the event alongside the Pauline thought of the New Testament has led to a decidedly theological turn in his thinking Drawing on traditions and subjects as broad as Buddhist thought dialectical materialism political subjectivity quantum physics AI and chatbots this book articulates Žižek's idea of a religious life for the first time Christian Atheism is a unique insight into Žižek's theological project and the first book length exploration of his religious thinking In his own words to become a true dialectical materialist one should go through the Christian experience Crucial to his whole conception of experience is not some kind of spiritual revelation but rather the logic of materialistic thought This affirmation of Christian theology whilst simultaneously deconstructing it is a familiar Žižekian move but one that holds deep seated political philosophical and in the end personal import for him Here is Žižek's most extensive treatment of theology and religion to date Christian Thought and Hindu Philosophy Arthur Herbert Bowman,1917 Materialist Christianity Ezra Byrd,2025-08-13 Materialist Christianity is a revolutionary synthesis of Christian moral teaching and historical materialism Written from the perspective of an atheist who has walked through the Bible with both reverence and critical clarity it argues that Christianity did not invent morality but discovered it unearthing objective truths about human flourishing through lived history This work treats

Scripture not as a supernatural decree but as the record of humanity's evolving moral consciousness forged in the struggles, betrayals and redemptions of real people. Through personal narrative, historical analysis and dialectical reasoning, the book reveals how biblical morality emerged as the end point of a long social process, one that even secular humanists unknowingly inherit. It dismantles the false divide between believer and nonbeliever, showing that both are engaged in the same moral project shaped by the same forces. It confronts difficult passages without dismissal or apology, finding their purpose within the material conditions of their time and their contribution to the moral arc of history. Blending memoir and philosophy, Materialist Christianity moves from the author's own lived experiences, marked by labor, love, betrayal and devotion, to the deep structure of Christian ethics as the culmination of humanity's search for truth. It draws on the concept of sub-objects, unseen social rules that shape behavior and sub-object resonance, the field of meaning created by symbols, to explain why Christian morality persists and why it matters even absent metaphysical belief. The book's ultimate claim is that Christianity survives not because it is immune to contradiction but because it has endured and grown through it. At its heart, Materialist Christianity calls for unity between atheists and Christians under the shared recognition that the teachings of Christ, understood materially, offer the most complete moral framework yet discovered, one capable of guiding humanity through the crises of the present and into a just future.

Religion No Fable: an Essay on the Adaptation of the Christian Religion to the Necessities of the Human Spirit Joseph Shenton, 1874      Jewish Glass and Christian Stone Eric C. Smith, 2017-11-15

In recent years, scholars have re-evaluated the parting of the ways between Judaism and Christianity, reaching new understandings of the ways shared origins gave way to two distinct and sometimes inimical religious traditions. But this has been a profoundly textual task, relying on the writings of rabbis, bishops and other text-producing elites to map the terrain of the parting. This book takes up the question of the divergence of Judaism and Christianity in terms of material, the stuff made, used and left behind by the persons that lived in and between these religions as they were developing. Considering the glass, clay, stone, paint, vellum and papyrus of ancient Jews and Christians, this book maps the parting in new ways and argues for a greater role for material and materialism in our reconstructions of the past.
