Christopher Alexander The Search For A New Paradigm In Architecture:

Christopher Alexander Stephen Grabow, 1983      Anti-architecture and Deconstruction Nikos Angelos Salingaros, 2004

The Emperor Has No Clothes is an old adage but in the sad case of Deconstructivism it is absolutely appropriate as Deconstructivism is really nothing more than Modernism in a new guise Modernists notably the Bauhaus aimed for the clean slate jettisoning everything that went before Yet at times they claimed links with antecedents to give a spurious historical ancestry to their aims and creations These questionable links and precedents are now being claimed for the works of Deconstructivists by sympathetic architects and their supporters      Automatic Architecture Sean Keller (Architectural historian), 2017 Introduction into the automatic Finland tech design methods at Cambridge The logic of form Peter Eisenman's early work The politics of form finding Frei Otto and postwar German architecture Conclusion from automatic architecture to architectural automatisms      Computer Architectures Theodora Vardouli, Olga Touloumi, 2019-11-19 Computer Architectures is a collection of multidisciplinary historical works unearthing sites concepts and concerns that catalyzed the cross contamination of computers and architecture in the mid 20th century Weaving together intellectual social cultural and material histories this book paints the landscape that brought computing into the imagination production and management of the built environment whilst foregrounding the impact of architecture in shaping technological development The book is organized into sections corresponding to the classic von Neumann diagram for computer architecture program control unit storage memory input output and computation arithmetic logic unit each acting as a quasi material category for parsing debates among architects engineers mathematicians and technologists Collectively authors bring forth the striking homologies between a computer program and an architectural program a wall and an interface computer memory and storage architectures structures of mathematics and structures of things The collection initiates new histories of knowledge and technology production that turn an eye toward disciplinary fusions and their institutional and intellectual drives Constructing the common ground between design and computing this collection addresses audiences working at the nexus of design technology and society including historians and practitioners of design and architecture science and technology scholars and media studies scholars      Dwelling, Place and Environment David Seamon, Robert Mugerauer, 2012-12-06 themes among the essays resurface and resonate Though our request for essays was broad and open ended we found that topics such as seeing authenticity interpretation wholeness care and dwelling ran as undercurrents throughout Our major hope is that each essay plays a part in revealing a larger whole of meaning which says much about a more humane relationship with places environments and the earth as our home Part I Beginnings and directions At the start we recognize the tremendous debt this volume owes to philosopher Martin Heidegger 1889-1976 whose ontological excavations into the nature of human existence and meaning provide the philosophical foundations for many of the essays particularly those in Part I of the volume Above all else Heidegger was regarded by his students and colleagues as a master teacher He not only thought deeply but was also able to show others how to think and to question Since he perhaps more than anyone else in this century provides the instruction for doing a phenomenology and hermeneutic of humanity's existential situation he is seminal for phenomenological and hermeneutical research in the environmental disciplines He presents in his writings what conventional scholarly work especially the scientific approach lacks he helps us to evoke and understand things through a method that allows them to come forth as they are he provides a new way to speak about and care for our human nature and environment

Graph Vision Theodora Vardouli, 2024-11-12 How a protean mathematical object the graph ushered in new images tools and infrastructures for design and catalyzed a digital future for architecture In Graph Vision Theodora Vardouli offers a fresh history of architecture's early entanglements with modern mathematics and digital computing by focusing on a hidden protagonist the graph Fueled by iconoclastic sentiments and skepticism of geometric depiction architects she explains turned to the skeletal underpinnings of their work and with it the graph as a site of representation operation and political possibility Taking the reader on an enthralling journey through a polyvalent mathematical entity Vardouli combines close readings of graphs architectural manifestations as images tools and infrastructures for design with original archival work on research centers that spearheaded mathematical and computational approaches to architecture Structured thematically Graph Vision weaves together archival findings on influential research groups such as the Land Use Built Form Studies Center at the University of Cambridge the Center for Environmental Structure at Berkeley the Architecture Machine Group at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology among others as well as important figures who led or worked in proximity to these groups including Lionel March Christopher Alexander and Yona Friedman Together this material chronicles the emergence of both a new way of seeing and a new prospect for the discipline that prefigured its digital future of a graph vision Vardouli argues that this vision was one of vacillation toward visual appearance Digital approaches to architecture she ultimately reveals were founded on a profound ambivalence toward the visual realm endemic to mid twentieth century architectural and mathematical modernisms

The Structure of Architectural Theory Cornelis Jacobus Baljon, 1993

Regenerative-Adaptive Design for Sustainable Development Phillip B. Roös, 2020-09-15 In this book the author tests a regenerative adaptive pattern language theory towards investigating the possibilities of a holistic integrated design and planning method for sustainable development that incorporates the principles of regenerative design as well as an adaptive pattern language that re-establishes our wholeness with nature and considers the vulnerabilities of a changing landscape The book examines an integral approach to contemporary theories of planning and design that explores the human nature relationship patterns in social and spatial interconnections between people and their natural environments The interconnectedness of human and natural systems is used to scaffold possible solutions to address key environmental and sustainability issues that specifically address the need for patterns of behaviour that acknowledge the duality of man and nature In 12 chapters the book presents a holistic regenerative adaptive pattern language that encapsulates how communities can better appreciate landscape change under future climate effects and acknowledges the importance to adapt to patterns of change of place and the environment and therefore inform the communities responses for sustainable development The application of the regenerative adaptive pattern language was tested along the Great Ocean Road region of the Victorian coast in Australia The concluding chapters argues that for human settlements and cities to be resilient and sustainable we must understand the interconnected patterns of human built environments and natural systems and how we function in a social spatial dimension with these The book is intended for practitioners and academic scholars with interest in sustainable development regenerative design pattern languages biophilia settlement planning and climate change adaptation
