Christian Religious Education Sharing Our Story And Vision:

Christian Religious Education Thomas H. Groome, 1980 What mission calls us to teach How do societal issues social oppression poverty politics affect what we teach how we teach it and how people learn Who are our students What and when are they ready to learn Once we understand these foundations how can we facilitate an educational experience that has the power to shape and transform people and communities in life giving ways of faith In this classic text Thomas Groome asks and answers these central questions providing a comprehensive integration of the history theory and practice of modern religious education for a new generation of educators His self reflective approach shared praxis will inspire school teachers students of religious education pastors parents and religious educators in local churches who want to understand themselves their mission and their surroundings Copyright Libri GmbH All rights reserved Christian Religious Education Thomas H. Groome, 1980-01-01 Uses contemporary educational theory biblical scholarship and social theory to define the purpose and approach of modern Christian education Christian Religious Education Thomas H. Groome, 1980 Intergenerational Catechesis timone a davis, 2021-03-12 In this work the author moves away from youth centered catechesis toward a catechetical method that gets at the heart of faith formation for ALL generations storytelling In the African American storytelling tradition both the storyteller and listener are important they embody the story What happens in the story exchange process is the discovery of connections The author s method of African American storytelling My Story Your Story brings to life the Christian story through our shared experiences Intergenerational catechesis invites us to see ourselves and one another across time through eyes that are young middle aged and elderly Based on an understanding of family intergenerational catechesis moves away from the domestic church as a starting point for growing in faith to the community as a starting point Where the domestic church focuses on those who live in the household intergenerational catechesis focuses on everyone in the Church community single persons divorced persons widows widowers teens young adults pre school and elementary children parents grandparents aunts and uncles In highlighting our connections we are better able to see ourselves and one another differently When we see ourselves and others transformed faith is revitalized Theological Reflection across Religious Traditions Edward Foley, 2015-02-12 Theological reflection connecting real life ministry and religious traditions is a core component of most pastoral training It is also a hallmark of practical theology and a common spiritual exercise among ordinary Christians trying to discern how their beliefs might influence daily living Yet our society is increasingly pluralistic with growing numbers of people from varying belief systems from Islam to Buddhism as well as an increasing number of atheists In this book Edward Foley reimagines theological reflection in interfaith contexts and with those of no faith tradition The book addresses and celebrates diverse beliefs and envisions the practice of theological reflection in such contexts Theological Reflection Across Religious Traditions introduces readers to the basics of traditional forms of theological reflection then considers how it might be reconceived in different contexts from interfaith ministers working together to reduce poverty and homelessness to people of diverse or no faith traditions strategizing to secure the dignity of undocumented immigrants Beyond suggestions for collaborative social action the book offers tools for productive interfaith conversation through a process Foley calls reflective believing This is a groundbreaking rethinking of theological reflection for today's world proposing that people across the religious landscape can participate in reflective believing for personal and communal benefit without sacrificing their own integrity

Roman Jacobson's Prism The Rev. Dr. Ronald Hunt, 2018-05-22 Roman Jacobson's Prism Learning the Language of Faith is a dissertation that examines the common elements found in the catechetical documents of the three mainline Canadian churches the Anglican Roman Catholic and United Church Dr Hunt employs Roman Jakobson's communication theory for the analysis as communication is central to faith education Twenty first century churches need to respond effectively to the faith education of their membership and Dr Hunt hopes that this work will inspire the churches of today to create faith responses to the challenges that the world faces now and into the future

Lovedale, Coercive Agency Graham A. Duncan, 2003 Any society and its institutions is coercive While acknowledging the invaluable contribution of mission education to the development of black South Africans Lovedale Missionary Institution exemplifies the concept of a total institution susceptible to the problems of power relations Those who studied there internalised its ethos Coercive agency encouraged adaptation to missionary ideology However many Lovedale students rejected the mores of the religion and education they received as they challenged and resisted the effects of the coercive agency of internalisation Institutionalisation is by nature resistant to change as can be seen in the policies of the respective Principals Consequently black people were alienated by a process of exclusion Justice love and peace are appropriate tools for a new model of education in South Africa As past Missionary in Charge at Lovedale an icon of Christian mission education in South Africa Duncan writes with an insider's understanding rare missiological insight as well as passionate commitment His book presents an outstanding contribution to social mission history in South Africa It makes an original and very important contribution to our mission studies in South Africa and indeed worldwide

Sharing the Old, Old Story Nathan Jones, 1982

Leading God's People Richard Bondi, 1989 In Leading God's people Richard Bondi discusses the risky business of exercising true pastoral leadership He recognizes that leaders who live only at the edge of a community can become detached from their community and unable to lead while those who commandeer the center can end up protecting its interests from dangerous opportunities at the edge Bondi thus engages in critical reflection on the church's mission to increase love for God and neighbor without the leader becoming paralyzed at either extreme Vivid stories of men and women in real life situations are interwoven throughout to demonstrate the temptation to play it safe at the risk of faithful leadership These stories provide a language for facing morally difficult pastoral situations and offer thought provoking ethical reflection instead of supplying easy answers Bondi draws from current work in narrative theology and character ethics to help develop an ethics for the practice of ministry Among Bondi's examples of transforming and transformative leadership are the apostle Paul Martin Luther King Jr and Alan Boesak Such leaders call us to become different kinds of people in order to embody the truth of the Christian story In addition to telling other great stories they all told the story of Christ and gave a destination to restless hearts How they did so and how others might do so as well is the story of the moral leader the leader who stands at the edge of the community where change and challenge occur from back cover
