Christianity And The World Order Bbc Reith Lectures 1978:

Revolution, Economics and Religion Anthony Michael C. Waterman, 1991-08-30 Professor Waterman analyses the story of the intellectual repulse of revolution and describes the ideological alliance of political economy and Christian theology after 1798

Society Shaped by Theology Professor Robin Gill, 2013-05-28 Over the last thirty years a number of theologians have been using aspects of sociology alongside the more traditional resources of philosophy In turn sociologists with an interest in theology have also contributed to an interaction between theology and sociology The time is right to revisit the dialogue between theologians and sociologists In his new trilogy on Sociological Theology Robin Gill makes a renewed contribution to the mapping of three abiding ways of relating theology and sociology with the three volumes covering Theology in a Social Context Theology Shaped by Society Society Shaped by Theology Society Shaped by Theology explores the possibility that theological concepts may sometimes still be influential in the modern world It follows in the tradition of Max Weber arguing that theological virtues and debates can at times be transposed wittingly or unwittingly into society at large Robin Gill examines the unusual instance of the public debate about Honest to God in the 1960s but then turns to the current debate about faith and social capital adding fresh and unexpected evidence Finally Gill argues that bioethics in the public domain especially on global issues such as AIDS can be enriched and deepened by a judicious use of theological virtues

Society Shaped by Theology Robin Gill, 2013 Society Shaped by Theology explores the possibility that theological concepts may sometimes still be influential in the modern world It follows in the tradition of Max Weber arguing that theological virtues and debates can at times be transposed wittingly or unwittingly into society at large Gill examines the unusual instance of the public debate about Honest to God in the 1960s but then turns to the current debate about faith and social capital adding fresh and unexpected evidence

Classical and Modern Thought on International Relations R. Jackson, 2005-04-01 In the tradition of the English School of International Relations theory this project from Robert Jackson seeks to show how continuities in international politics outweigh the changes The author demonstrates how the world is neither one of anarchy as put forward by realists nor is it a fully cosmopolitan order as argued by those on the other side of the theoretical spectrum Instead it is a world of states who acknowledge a set of moral constraints that exists between them

Religion and Public Reasons John Finnis, 2011-04-07 The essays in Religion and Public Reasons seek to argue for and illustrate a central element of John Finnis's theory of natural law that the main tenets of personal and political morality and of a good legal order are taught both by reason arguments accessible to everyone and by authentic divine revelation teachings accessible to all who have a reasonable faith in its witnesses The author's main books each include arguments for rejecting atheism and agnosticism several papers here take up these arguments and indicate ways in which they open onto the reasonable grounds for accepting that more about God's nature and about the meaning of Creation including ongoing natural evolution is disclosed by the revelation carried far forward among the Jewish people and given definitive form by the Jews and Greeks who assembled in the universal Church as witnesses of Christ to carry forward that revelation into our present. Several papers argue that public reason properly includes such a religion and that Humeian Nietzschean Deweyian Rawlsian or other atheistical or deistic understandings of a reasonable secularism are badly mistaken. Many substantial papers record the author's position in controversies within Catholicism since the 1960s on social justice, contraception and abortion, nuclear deterrence, Newman on conscience before Pope Maritain's hopes for a new Christendom and von Balthasar's for a hell empty of human persons and on proportionalism and Lonerganian historical consciousness as moral theological methods. Previously unpublished papers include several University and college sermons and a substantial introduction.

The Irish Protestant Churches in the Twentieth Century Alan Megahey, 2000-08-17 This book is unique in recording the history of all the Protestant churches in Ireland in the twentieth century though with particular focus on the two largest, the Presbyterian and the Church of Ireland. It examines the changes and chances in those churches during a turbulent period in Irish history relating their development to the wider social and political context. Their structures and beliefs are examined and their influence both in Ireland and overseas is assessed. Can We Trust the New Testament? George Albert Wells, 2004 Can We Trust the New Testament questions the historical accuracy of widely held views of early Christianity. In this book radical Bible scholar G. A. Wells examines Biblical accounts of the lives of the apostles Peter and Paul and presents evidence that the events described in the New Testament were written over time to support the agendas of the Christian church. He embarks on a close analysis of the Book of Acts questioning its authorship and casting doubt on the events it and the gospels describe. The Christian View of Man H. D. McDonald, 1981 Law Books, 1876-1981 R.R. Bowker Company, 1981

British Books in Print, 1980 The Future of Christian Ethics Ronald H. Preston, 1987 This book is about decision making. Its underlying theme is that we cannot move directly from basic Christian insights to key areas where ethical choices have to be made without some kind of empirical investigation with all the hazards which that brings. And the more detailed the analysis and recommendations drawn from the investigation, the greater the difference of opinion will be. This makes it important to work on particular topics in groups looking for agreement at a middle level on a general direction; this is important where the situation is polarized as it often is. The studies collected here relate to three areas: ecumenical Christianity, economics and politics. The subjects discussed include the development of social ethics in the Church of England, the future of Protestant ethics, the end of the Protestant work ethic, the New Right, political theology, liberation theology, penal theory and practice and the demoralization of modern society. Church and Society in the Late Twentieth Century Ronald H. Preston, 1983 New Oxford Review, 1978 Bulletin of Dr. Williams's Library Dr. Williams's Library, 1980 Politics and the Pursuit of Happiness Ghița Ionescu, 1984 Faith and Freedom, 1977 A Passion for Truth Robert Nowell, 1981 Christian Ethics & U.S. Foreign Policy Mark R. Amstutz, 1987 Liberation Theology Atilio René Dupertuis, 1987 Liberation theology emerged as a response to the historical reality of Latin American political and economic problems with the purpose of bringing justice and liberation to the masses This investigation concludes that liberation theology in spite of its timeliness and virtues has to a large extent neglected the transcendent due to its absorbing preoccupation with the historical and has emptied the Gospel of much of its saving content National Union Catalog
