More and Better Jobs in South Asia ,2011-12-20 South Asia has created nearly 800 000 jobs per month during the last decade Robust economic growth in large parts of the region has created better jobs those that pay higher wages for wage workers and reduce poverty for the self employed the largest segment of the region s employed Going forward South Asia faces the enormous challenge of absorbing 1 to 1.2 million entrants to the labor force every month for the next two decades at rising levels of productivity This calls for an agenda that cuts across sectors and includes improving the reliability of electricity supply for firms in both urban and rural settings dealing decisively with issues of governance and corruption making access to land easier for urban informal firms and strengthening transport links between rural firms and their markets It requires improving nutrition in early childhood to avoid cognitive impairment intensifying the focus on quality of learning in education systems equipping workers with the skills that employers demand and reorienting labor market regulations and programs to protect workers rather than jobs The continuance of high economic growth to help improve job quality is not assured But the region s demography can provide a favorable tailwind The growth of workers exceeds that of dependents in much of the region The resources saved from having fewer dependents can be shifted to high priority investments in physical and human capital accumulation necessary to create productive jobs in countries with an enabling policy framework But the demographic window of opportunity is open for only the next three decades a fact which lends urgency to the reform agenda This book will be of interest to policy makers their advisers researchers and students of economics who seek solutions not only to the challenge of creating more and better jobs in South Asia but globally as well It is the first title in South Asia Development Matters a new series that will serve as a vehicle for in depth synthesis of economic and policy analysis on key development topics for South Asia Daily Labor Report ,2006-08 Sustainable Tourism on a Finite Planet Megan Epler Wood,2017-02-28 This book helps all those involved in international tourism develop the new skills tools and investments required to protect irreplaceable global resources from the impacts of escalating tourism demand over the next 50 years It documents how technology and the growing global middle class are driving a travel revolution which requires a new paradigm in managing tourism destinations Travel and tourism supply chains and business models for hotels tour operators cruise lines airlines and airports are analysed and environmental management techniques are proposed for each sector A pragmatic set of solutions are offered to support the transition to lower impact tourism development worldwide It recommends that decision makers assess the current and future value of natural social and cultural capital to guide investment in destinations and protect vital resources Case studies illustrate why budgets to protect local destinations are consistently underestimated and offer guidance on new metrics Innovative approaches are proposed to support the transition to green infrastructure protect incomparable landscapes and engage local people in the monitoring of vital indicators to protect local resources It provides students professionals and policy makers with far reaching recommendations for new educational programs professional expertise financing and legal frameworks to lower tourism s rapidly escalating carbon impacts and protect the health and well being of local populations ecosystems cultures and monuments worldwide
