Quick Creator Economy Trends For Teens:

Critical Internet Literacies Jamie Cohen, 2024-12-30 An introductory critical internet studies text that builds upon media literacy and digital culture theory to offer a thorough examination of the intersection of online technology and culture. We are now collectively at a hinge point in the evolution of the web where online influencers can sway national discourse, geopolitical events are remixed through memes, and online harms are misunderstood. This book argues that people are generally aware that online media has repercussions in off-platform spaces but sometimes lack the language to properly critique online trends, memes, and internet-born media. How are citizens, activists, and marginalized groups able to use these tools effectively and safely in these times? Jamie Cohen explores aspects of internet culture in an approachable manner, building upon critical media literacy and applying a critical technocultural analysis as a methodology to reimagine how media literacy can operate in an online media environment. The book explores key topics such as accessibility, the creator economy, content moderation, tech bias, platform capitalism, internet culture, and safety. Offering a new way of reading internet media and critiquing content and creators, this book is essential reading for students and scholars of digital culture, internet culture, media literacy, social media, and beyond.

From Pessimism to Promise Payal Arora, 2024-09-03 A radical paradigm shift in the way we think about AI and tech, taking hope and inspiration from the aspirational users of new technologies around the world. When it comes to tech, the mainstream headlines are bleak: Algorithms control and oppress; AI will destroy democracy and our social fabric and possibly even drive us to extinction. While legitimate concerns drive these fears, we need to equally account for the fact that tech affords young people something incredibly valuable: a rare space for self-actualization. In From Pessimism to Promise, award-winning author Payal Arora explains that outside the West, where most of the world's youth reside, there is a significant different outlook on tech. In fact, there is a contagion of optimism toward all things digital. These users, especially those in marginalized contexts, are full of hope for new tech. As AI disrupts sectors across industries, education, and beyond, who better to shine the light forward? Arora argues that the Global South, the navigator of all manner of forced disruptions, leapfrogging obstructive systems, norms, and practices to rapidly reinvent itself, is drawing on field insights in diverse global contexts such as Brazil, India, and Bangladesh. Payal describes what drives Gen Z to embrace new technologies. From Pessimism to Promise discusses the shift to relationally driven approaches to design, how to create algorithms of aspiration, how to reimagine the digital space for sex, pleasure, and care, and what we can learn from feminist digital activists and women's collectives in the Global South on shared digital provenance and value, as well as indigenous approaches to sustainability that challenge sacred ideas on degrowth, circular economy, and the doughnut economy. Arora also takes heart in the power in numbers as the users from the majority world infuse algorithms with everyday aspirations, pushing for a new digital order. Timely and urgent, From Pessimism to Promise makes a deeply compelling case that it is not naïve to be optimistic about our digital future. On the contrary, it is our moral imperative to design with hope. The

Facebook Paradox Azhar ul Haque Sario, 2024-12-18 Ever felt strangely connected and utterly alone at the same time That's the Facebook paradox This book dives deep into how Facebook with its likes shares and endless feeds shapes our lives in ways we barely understand We'll explore the brain science behind those feel good hormones triggered by online interactions We'll uncover how Facebook can fuel social movements and also isolate us in echo chambers This book isn't just another social media is bad rant It's a balanced look at the good the bad and the complicated We'll go beyond the headlines to understand how Facebook impacts our self esteem our relationships and even our politics Think of it as your guide to navigating the digital age with your eyes wide open

The Art of Status

Jelena Subotic, Professor of Political Science Jelena Subotic, 2025-10-09 An illuminating exploration of the relationship between the restitution of looted art global status and the international construction of national cultural heritage Why is art restitution a matter of politics How does the artwork displayed in national museums reflect the international status of the state that owns it Why do some states agree to return looted art and others resist National art collections have long been a way for states to compete with each other for status prestige and cultural worth in international society In many former imperial nations however these collections include art looted during imperial expansions and colonial occupations While this was once a sign of high international standing the markers of such status particularly in the context of art have since significantly changed A new international legal and normative architecture governing art provenance developed after World War II and became institutionalized in the 1990s and 2000s Since then there have been national and global social movements demanding the return of looted art This shift has established not only that looting is wrong but more importantly that restitution is morally right As a result of this reframing of what it means to own art an artifact's historical provenance has become a core element of its value and the search for provenance and demands for restitution a direct threat to state status. The same objects that granted states high international status now threaten to provoke status decline. In The Art of Status, Jelena Subotic examines this relationship between the restitution of looted art and international status with a focus on the Parthenon Elgin Marbles, the Benin Bronzes, and a collection of paintings looted during the Holocaust that are now housed at the Serbian National Museum. Subotic tells the story of these artworks: how they were looted, how they ended up on display in national museums, and how the art restitution disputes have unfolded. While these cases are different in terms of their historical context of looting and ownership claims, the movements for their restitution and resistance to it illustrate the larger questions of how national cultural heritage is internationally constructed and how it serves states' desire for international status and prestige. An in-depth and nuanced account of art restitution disputes, The Art of Status illuminates the shifting political significance of art on the international stage from ownership to restitution.
