My 10 Tips for Teaching on Tiktok

TIP #1:

Mix up length of videos.

- Shorter videos (under 15-30 seconds) are great for getting your video in content and share quickly in building it spread, especially when you first start out. This will help with research and getting more views.
- Longer videos are great for building trust, skills of knowledge.

10 TIPS FOR BUILDING A LEARNING COMMUNITY ON

TikTok

Adapted from my E-Book
"Teaching on TikTok:
A Guide to Growing Your Own Learning Community"

about the app,
and being on camera

- Do not change who you are or try to get followers on the app.
- People will respond to your unique voice, personality, and energy, and you don't have to be young, flashy, or "trendy" or bring people to your space.
- There is nothing too insignificant or small to teach to people. A successful teaching video can absolutely be a sentence long.
- Break larger concepts down into extremely simple or shortened clips. This will help you create more videos out of one general topic AND is a great teaching strategy.
- People learn better when information is chunked.
- It's also not Reels. TikTok as a space online has a distinct presence & feel that Reels lacks as it's part of a larger platform (IG).
- You can post multiple times a day.
- You can have "low-quality made" videos still do extremely well.
- Many "rules" of IG do not apply here.

Surveillance Education Nolan Higdon, Allison Butler, 2024-08-02 Surveillance Education explores the pervasive use of digital surveillance technologies in schools and assesses its pernicious effects on students Recognizing that the use of digital technologies will persist the authors instead offer practical ways to ameliorate their impact In our era of surveillance capitalism digital media technologies are ever more intertwined into the educational process Schools are presented with digital technologies as tools of convenience for gathering and grading student work as tools of support to foster a more equitable learning environment and as tools of safety for predicting or preventing violence or monitoring mental emotional and physical health Despite a dearth of evidence to confirm their effectiveness digital data collection and tracking is often presented as a way to improve educational outcomes and safety This book challenges these fallacious assumptions and argues that the use of digital media technologies has caused great harm to students by subjecting them to oppressive levels of surveillance impinging upon their right to privacy and harvesting their personal data on behalf of Big Tech In doing so the authors draw upon interviews from K 12 and higher education students teachers and staff civil rights and technology lawyers and educational technological programmers The authors also provide practical guidance for teachers administrators students and their families seeking to identify and combat surveillance in education This urgent eye opening book will be of interest to students and educators with interests in critical media literacy and pedagogy and the sociology of technology and education
