Colonial British Caribbean Newspapers Howard S. Pactor, 1990-07-24 This book is a milestone achievement in the documentation of the newspapers of the British Caribbean islands a field that until now has been neglected by many scholars The existing and bygone papers and several commonly unknown publications listed in this work provide a wealth of information about these obscure times No other work before this one has been as extensive in its documentation and coverage of the individual papers Of special assistance is the index which completes the work This bibliography seeks to determine the extent of newspaper publications in the British Caribbean colonies and to organize it into a useful form In the past researchers have either ignored or given brief and scattered coverage to this information but with Colonial British Caribbean Newspapers Pactor hopes to make this information available to scholars His book lists information about the known newspapers of the British Colonial Caribbean arranged alphabetically by colony and chronologically within each colony Dates of publications and names of editors publishers and owners are given if known The newspapers are also listed in an index It is hoped that a work of this sort may make access to these newspapers easier for scholarly research and call attention to the need to find and preserve these fragile resources Historians sociologists and mass communication scholars will be especially appreciative of Pactor s efforts

Smith Joseph Berrow James Adams J T Calliard John Drape and Thomas LeGall and details about them and some of their publications are provided Newspapers and official documents such as acts and proclamations are shown to have been the main products of the island s presses The book discusses the use of slaves by printers touches on other race related matters and provides insight into an 1830s battle for the right to serve as the island s government printer Few early Saint Vincent imprints are known to have survived but Early Printing in Saint Vincent includes an annotated list of more than 250 items printed in Saint Vincent prior to 1835 thus helping to close a large gap that has existed in West Indian bibliography The book concludes with examples of Saint Vincent advertisements and an index Illustrated in black and white     A Catalogue of Audio and Video Collections of Holocaust Testimony Joan Miriam Ringelheim,Joan Ringelheim,1992 This catalog offers important access to the memories and perceptions of those who survived the Holocaust It provides full descriptive listings of 43 institutions and their holdings of audio and video tapes of interviews with Holocaust survivors Access is provided to more than 11 600 interviews Included is information on the form and content of each collection as well as specifics on the institutions themselves access to their holdings their addresses and other directory type information     A World in Turmoil Hershel Edelheit,Abraham J.
