Reichard, 1980 This comprehensive treatise on the reticuloendothelial system is a project jointly shared by individual members of the Reticuloendothelial RE Society and bio medical scientists in general who are interested in the intricate system of cells and molecular moieties derived from those cells which constitute the RES It may now be more fashionable in some quarters to consider these cells as part of what is called the mononuclear phagocytic system or the lymphoreticular system Nevertheless because of historical developments and current interest in the subject by investigators from many diverse areas it seems advantageous to present in one comprehensive treatise current information and knowledge concerning basic aspects of the RES such as morphology biochemistry phylogeny and ontogeny physiology and pharmacology as well as clinical areas including immunopathology cancer infectious diseases allergy and hypersensitivity It is anticipated that by presenting information concerning these apparently heterogeneous topics under the unifying umbrella of the RES attention will be focused on the similarities as well as interactions among the cell types constituting the RES from the viewpoint of various disciplines The treatise editors and their editorial board consisting predominantly of the editors of individual volumes are extremely grateful for the enthusiastic cooperation and enormous task undertaken by members of the biomedical community in general and especially by members of the American as well as European and Japanese Reticuloendothelial Societies Hemopoietic Growth Factors and Mononuclear Phagocytes Ralph van Furth, 1993
