Drawing on fieldwork that spans sixteen years the book explores local musicians' lives as members of a flexible work force emphasizing questions of race social class and cultural politics in relation to professional music making. From clubs and restaurants to Carnival parades and festival celebrations to concert stages and recordings the ability of musicians to earn a living wage is contingent on their navigating industry and societal conditions that are profoundly informed by the entrenched legacies of colonization and slavery. Music in Print and Beyond Craig A. Monson, Roberta Montemorra Marvin, 2013 Fresh and innovative takes on the dissemination of music in manuscript print and now electronic formats revealing how the world has experienced music from the sixteenth century to the present. This collection of essays examines the diverse ways in which music and ideas about music have been disseminated in print and other media from the sixteenth century onward. Contributors look afresh at unfamiliar facets of the sixteenth century book trade and the circulation of manuscript and printed music in the seventeenth to nineteenth centuries. They also analyze and critique new media forms showing how a dizzying array of changing technologies has influenced what we hear whom we hear and how we hear. The repertoires considered include Western art music from medieval to contemporary as well as popular music and jazz.
