Combat Aircraft of the United States Air Force Michael Green, 2016-07-30 When the United States Army Signal Corps created the Aeronautical Division in August 1907 it had a mission to take charge of all matters pertaining to military ballooning air machines and all kindred matters That small inconsequential portion of the US Army would grow progressively over the many decades to become a separate service named the US Air Force in 1947 following the Second World War Overnight it became the worlds most powerful military establishment able to deliver conventional and nuclear ordnance anywhere around the globe Todays cutting edge example of this power projection is the supersonic bat winged B 2 Spirit stealth bomber which can fly at an altitude of 50 000 feet and is built of carbon graphite composite materials The B 2 Spirit is a far cry from the early days of the service when it relied on fragile prop driven wood and fabric aerial platforms such as the Wright Type B which could barely reach an altitude of 100 feet In between have been such iconic Second World War aircraft as the P 51 Mustang and P 47 Thunderbolt fighters and bombers such as the B 25 Mitchell B 17 Flying Fortress and B 29 Super Fortress which dropped the first A Bomb in 1945 The Cold War demanded ever more powerful aircraft such as the B 58 Hustler and B 52 Stratofortress and fighters including the F 86 Sabre F 104 Starfighter and F 4 Phantom All these aircraft and more are vividly illustrated and described in detail in this superb Images of War publication

Mosquito Graham M. Simons, 2011-03-19 A history of the high speed wooden aircraft from bomber to fighter to photographic and weather reconnaissance from the author of B 17 Memphis Belle During the history of aviation there have been very few aircraft that have achieved immediate success when entering front line service The de Havilland Mosquito was one such aircraft It was not designed to an RAF requirement but was the result of an initiative of the designers and builders to utilize the skills of woodworkers and the relative abundance of wood in the crisis years of World War II The result was an airplane that could be built quickly was extremely fast and extremely versatile The pilots loved it This book describes how it was built and utilizes many hitherto unpublished photographs from the design studio and production lines It illustrates and explains the many different roles that the aircraft took as the war progressed Fighter bomber reconnaissance night fighter there were few tasks that this brilliant design could not adopt To most Britain at War readers the de Havilland Mosquito needs little introduction Dramatic as such low level attacks were there is as Graham Simons reveals in this latest insight into a remarkable aircraft far more to the wartime service of the mossy Britain at War

Davies,2014-02-20 The General Dynamics F 111 was one of the most technically innovative designs among military aircraft introducing the variable sweep wing terrain following radar military rated afterburning turbofan engines and a self contained escape module among other features Designed as a cost saving multi role interceptor naval fighter and strike bomber its evolution prioritised the latter role and it became the USAF s most effective long range strike aircraft during three decades of service Rushed into combat in Vietnam before some of its structural issues were fully understood the type suffered several early losses and gained an unfairly negative reputation that dogged it for the rest of its career and restricted funding for more advanced versions of the design However in Operation Linebacker in 1972 the F 111 flew 4000 nocturnal under the radar missions delivering with unprecedented accuracy many decisive blows that would have resulted in heavy losses for any other attack aircraft The U.S. Combat Aircraft Industry, 1909-2000 Mark A. Lorell, 2003 Drawing on primary and secondary sources on the aircraft industry this report provides a brief survey of industry structure innovation and competition in the U S fixed wing combat aircraft industry from its earliest days to the present It supports a much larger research effort examining the future of the structure innovation and competition of the U S military aircraft industrial base that responds to congressional concerns about that future The Cutting Edge Mark A. Lorell, Hugh P. Levaux, 1998 The proposition that innovation is critical in the cost effective design and development of successful military aircraft is still subject to some debate RAND research indicates that innovation is promoted by intense competition among three or more industry competitors Given the critical policy importance of this issue in the current environment of drastic consolidation of the aerospace defense industry the authors here examine the history of the major prime contractors in developing jet fighters since World War II They make use of an extensive RAND database that includes nearly all jet fighters fighter attack aircraft and bombers developed and flown by U S industry since 1945 as well as all related prototypes modifications upgrades etc The report concludes that 1 experience matters because of the tendency to specialize and thus to develop system specific expertise 2 yet the most dramatic innovations and breakthroughs came from secondary or marginal players trying to compete with the industry leaders and 3 dedicated military R D conducted or directly funded by the U S government has been critical in the development of new higher performance fighters and bombers

Fighter Aircraft Combat Debuts, 1915-1945 Jon Guttman, 2014 An International History of the Development Competition and Deployment of High Speed Maneuverable Fighter Aircraft During the Era of the World Wars Of all military aircraft fighter planes hold a mystique all their own Perhaps it is because fighters can afford the least compromise when the goal is to seize and maintain control of the air the confrontation is direct During World War I the concept of air superiority took hold and in the ensuing decades the development of fighter aircraft became an ongoing back and forth battle with adversaries trying to gain an upper hand through innovations in aerodynamics powerplants and armament Fighter Aircraft Combat Debuts 1915-1945 Innovation in Air Warfare Before the Jet Age by prominent aviation expert Jon Guttman explores the first combats for a variety of fighters of World War I the conflicts of the so called interwar years and World War II a thirty year period that saw the birth of the fighter concept and its maturity on the threshold of the Jet Age Most of the aircraft described are fairly well known to aviation historians and a few names such as Sopwith Camel Fokker Triplane Messerschmitt Me 109 Mitsubishi Zero North American Mustang and Supermarine Spitfire are familiar even to the most nonaviation minded persons Not so well known are the circumstances of their combat debuts in which some such as the Zero made their mark almost from the outset but in which others like the British Bristol F 2A showed rather less promise than they would
