Competing Religious Conversions and Re-conversions in Contemporary Mongolia

Vesna A. Wallace

Introduction

Religious conversion has always been an important factor in the processes of transmission and globalization of religion. It involves compromise and innovative interpretation, conditioned by the cultural and religious backgrounds of the targeted group and by the proselytizers' methods and reasons for conversionary efforts. A process of religious conversion necessarily involves a certain degree of intercultural exchange that takes place in specific historical, social and cultural settings. In that regard, it is to some degree similar to the process of translation between different modes of expression.

The manner in which an individual or group of people understands a phenomenon of religion influences their way of interpreting and experiencing religious conversion. In the Mongolian socio-cultural milieu, it appears that religious conversion has not merely involved an adoption of a new religious identity, but also an adaptation of a new religious tradition into the existing ethnic identity and spiritual lineage. Traditionally, corresponding terminology for religious conversion was absent in the Mongolian language; such terminology was introduced in the twentieth century under the influence of Christian missionaries among Mongolians. Even in the modern Mongolian language one does not find a single term for conversion or for a convert. A current linguistic interpretation of religious conversion as a crossing of religious boundaries is relatively new in the Mongolian language. This interpretation is based on Christian missionaries' understanding of conversion as an adoption of a new religious identity, which often implies the ideas of turning and changing from the state of sin to repentance, or from heresy to the true faith. In contemporary Mongolian, conversion is expressed by the descriptive phrase 'to change one's doctrine' (üzel barimtlalaa öөрчлүүлэх), which is also used to designate a change of one's political views. Similarly, a religious convert is designated by descriptive expressions such as 'a person who entered a different religion' (öör номд орсон хүн) or 'a person who became of a different faith' (öör шүтлэгтэ болсон хүн).

Throughout history, the Mongolians' attitude toward any religion has been closely related to their practical, immediate concerns such as personal health, health of livestock, material wellbeing, and so on. This made them open to any

Contemporary Religious Conversions:

Contemporary Religious Conversions Joseph Mathew, 2001 Religious Conversion Christopher Lamb, M. Darroll Bryant, 1999-10-01 Conversion has been an important issue for most of the universal religions those usually associated with a founder such as Christianity Buddhism Islam and Judaism which have a mission to spread their message Other religions have been less concerned with conversion except in so far as it has been a negative force for them to confront This study explores how conversion has been understood by different religions during different eras and includes a survey of the textual legal ritual historic and experiential dimensions of the phenomenon Conversion of a Continent Timothy Steigenga, Edward L. Cleary, 2009-11-27 A massive religious transformation has unfolded over the past forty years in Latin America and the Caribbean In a region where the Catholic Church could once claim a near monopoly of adherents religious pluralism has fundamentally altered the social and religious landscape Conversion of a Continent brings together twelve original essays that document and explore competing explanations for how and why conversion has occurred Contributors draw on various insights from social movement theory to religious studies to help outline its impact on national attitudes and activities gender relations identity politics and reverse waves of missions from Latin America aimed at the American immigrant community Unlike other studies on religious conversion this volume pays close attention to who converts under what circumstances the meaning of conversion to the individual and how the change affects converts beliefs and actions The thematic focus makes this volume important to students and scholars in both religious studies and Latin American studies

Religious Conversions in the Mediterranean World N. Marzouki, O. Roy, 2013-08-22 While globalization undermines ideas of the nation state in the Mediterranean conversions reveal how religion can unsettle existing political and social relations Through studies of conversions across the region this book examines the challenges that conversions represent for national legal and policy ways of dealing with religious minorities The Oxford Handbook of Religious Conversion Lewis Rambo, Charles E. Farhadian, 2014 The Oxford Handbook of Religious Conversion offers a comprehensive exploration of the dynamics of religious conversion which for centuries has profoundly shaped societies cultures and individuals throughout the world Scholars from a wide array of religions and disciplines interpret both the varieties of conversion experiences and the processes that inform this personal and communal phenomenon This volume examines the experiences of individuals and communities who change religions those who experience an intensification of their religion of origin and those who encounter new religions through colonial intrusion missionary work and charismatic and revitalization movements The thirty two innovative essays provide overviews of the history of particular religions including Hinduism Buddhism Confucianism Taoism Sikhism Islam Christianity Judaism indigenous religions and new religious movements The essays also offer a wide range of disciplinary perspectives psychological sociological anthropological legal political feminist and geographical on methods and theories deployed in understanding conversion and insight into various forms of deconversion A New Model of Religious Conversion Ines W. Jindra, 2014-02-06 Based on the analysis of 52 conversion narratives to various religious groups A New Model of Religious Conversion utilizes case studies for comparison of converts backgrounds network influence and conversion narratives The author convincingly illustrates a fit between the converts background and the religion they convert to such as between disorganized family backgrounds and highly structured religions Conversely those from highly structured backgrounds often convert to more open groups The book also makes it clear that not all conversions are influenced by networks or align themselves with a social constructivist view of a conversion as an account Taking converts trajectories seriously the author makes a strong case for the application of biographical sociology to the study of conversion and American sociology overall

Conversions Simon Ditchfield, Helen Smith, 2017-01-06 Conversions is the first collection to explicitly address the intersections between sexed identity and religious change in the two centuries following the Reformation Chapters deal with topics as diverse as convent architecture and missionary enterprise the replicability of print and the representation of race Bringing together leading scholars of literature history and art history Conversions offers new insights into the varied experiences of and responses to conversion across and beyond Europe A lively Afterword by Professor Matthew Dimmock University of Sussex drives home the contemporary urgency of these themes and the lasting legacies of the Reformations

Religion and Mental Health , 1980 Religious Conversion Sante De Sanctis, 1927 The Turn of the Soul Lieke Stelling, Harald Hendrix, Todd Richardson, 2012-01-05 Focusing on conversion as one of early modern Europe s most pressing issues the present book offers a comprehensive reading of artistic and literary ways in which spiritual transformations and exchanges of religious identities were given meaning

Contemporary Religious Movements in Taiwan Kai-Ti Chou, 2007 Presents a study of the recruitment strategies and conversion rhetoric in contemporary religious movements focusing primarily on two movements in Taiwan Tzu Chi and Falun Gong This work demonstrates that an examination of such rhetoric has the potential to provide genuine insights into how a given religion gains adherents

^AA History of Christian Conversion David W. Kling, 2020-05-05 In this first in depth and wide ranging history of Christian conversion David Kling examines the dynamic of turning to the Christian faith by individuals families and people groups Global in reach and engaging recent methods and theories in conversion studies the narrative progresses from early Christian beginnings in the Roman world to Christianity s expansion into Europe the Americas China India and Africa Although conversion is often associated with a particular strand of modern Christianity evangelical and a particular type of experience sudden overwhelming when examined over two millennia it emerges as a phenomenon far more complex than any one dimensional profile would suggest

The Oxford Handbook of Religious Conversion Lewis R. Rambo, Charles E. Farhadian, 2014-03-06 The Oxford Handbook of Religious Conversion offers a comprehensive exploration of the dynamics of religious conversion which for centuries has profoundly shaped societies cultures and individuals throughout the world Scholars from a wide array of religions and disciplines interpret both the varieties of conversion experiences and the processes that inform this personal and communal phenomenon This volume examines the experiences of individuals and communities who change religions those who experience an intensification of their religion of origin and those who encounter new religions through colonial intrusion missionary work and charismatic and revitalization movements The thirty two innovative essays provide overviews of the history of particular religions including Hinduism Buddhism Confucianism Taoism Sikhism Islam Christianity Judaism indigenous religions and new religious movements The essays also offer a wide range of disciplinary perspectives psychological sociological anthropological legal political feminist and geographical on methods and theories deployed in understanding conversion and insight into various forms of deconversion

Turning to Jesus Scot McKnight, 2002-01-01 Scot McKnight's careful study of Jesus' relationship with his followers reveals that elements of all three contemporary models of conversion the personal decision the sociological and the liturgical are present within the Gospel accounts But because the Gospel narratives themselves are insufficiently explicit to support only one contemporary model of conversion McKnight suggests that an enhanced reading of the Gospels should engender an appreciation for each of the models in the church today

Conversion to the New Religions Thomas McGowan, 1980 Discusses the questions and offers insights which may decrease tension within religious and civil society concerning contemporary religious conversions p 1

Conversion to Modernities Peter van der Veer, 2014-01-14 Peter van der Veer has gathered together a groundbreaking collection of essays that suggests that conversion to forms of Christianity in the modern period is not only a conversion to modern forms of these religions but also to religious forms of modernity Religious perceptions of the self of community and of the state are transformed when Western discourses of modernity become dominant in the modern world This volume seeks to relate Europe and its Others by exploring conversion both in modern Europe and in the colonized world

Conversion and Religious Experience Oscar S. Kriebel, 1907

Conversion to the New Religions John Fandel, 1980 Discusses the questions and offers insights which may decrease tension within religious and civil society concerning contemporary religious conversions p 1

Religious Conversion and Disaffiliation Henri Gooren, 2010-09-15 The conversion career defined as all episodes of participation in religious organizations during a person's life is a new and systematic approach to conversion and disaffiliation as a dynamic process It is a tool to analyze the interplay of factors between the individual actor the religious organization and the wider social and cultural context This book is the first in over a decade to attempt a systematic synthesis of the field of conversion studies encompassing the disciplines of anthropology sociology psychology history and theology Gooren analyzes conversion and disaffiliation in a worldwide comparative framework using data from North America Europe and Latin America

Bastards and Believers Theodor Dunkelgrün, Paweł Maciejko, 2020-04-03 A formidable collection of studies on religious conversion and converts in Jewish history Theodor Dunkelgrün and Paweł Maciejko observe that the term conversion is profoundly polysemous It can refer to Jews who turn to religions other than Judaism and non Jews who tie their fates to that of Jewish people It can be used to talk about Christians becoming Muslim or vice versa Christians born again or premodern efforts to Christianize or Islamize indigenous populations of Asia Africa and the Americas It can even describe how modern secular people discover spiritual creeds and join religious communities Viewing Jewish history from the perspective of conversion across a broad chronological and conceptual frame Bastards and Believers highlights how the concepts of the convert and of conversion have histories of their own The volume begins with Sara Japhet's study of conversion in the Hebrew Bible and ends with Netanel Fisher's essay on conversion to Judaism in contemporary Israel In between Andrew S Jacobs writes about the allure of becoming an other in late Antiquity Ephraim Kanarfogel considers Rabbinic attitudes and approaches toward conversion to Judaism in the Middle Ages and Paola Tartakoff ponders the relationship between conversion and poverty in medieval Iberia Three case studies by Javier Castaño Claude Stuczynski and Anne Oravetz Albert focus on different aspects of the experience of Spanish Portuguese conversos Michela Andreatta and Sarah Gracombe discuss conversion narratives and Elliott Horowitz and Ellie Shinker analyze Eastern European converts encounters with missionaries of different persuasions Despite the differences between periods contexts and sources two fundamental and mutually exclusive notions of human life thread the essays together the conviction that one can choose one's destiny and the conviction that one cannot escape one's past The history of converts presented by Bastards and Believers speaks to the possibility or impossibility of changing one's life Contributors Michela Andreatta Javier Castaño Theodor Dunkelgrün Netanel Fisher Sarah Gracombe Elliott Horowitz Andrew S Jacobs Sara Japhet Ephraim Kanarfogel Paweł Maciejko Anne Oravetz Albert Ellie Shinker Claude Stuczynski Paola Tartakoff
