How to Be an Intellectual Jeffrey J. Williams, 2014-09-15 Over the past decade Jeffrey J. Williams has been one of the most perceptive observers of contemporary literary and cultural studies. He has also been a shrewd analyst of the state of American higher education. How to Be an Intellectual brings together noted and new essays and exemplifies Williams's effort to bring criticism to a wider public. How to Be an Intellectual profiles a number of critics drawing on a unique series of interviews that give an inside look at their work and careers. The book often looks at critical thought from surprising angles, examining for instance the history of modern American criticism in terms of its keywords as they morphed from sound to rigorous to smart. It also puts in plain language the political travesty of higher education policies that produce student debt, which as Williams demonstrates all too readily follow the model of colonial indenture, not just as a metaphor but in actual point of fact. How to Be an Intellectual tells a story of intellectual life since the culture wars. Shedding academic obscurity and calling for a better critical writing, it reflects on what makes the critic and intellectual the accidents of careers, the trends in thought, the institutions that shape us, and politics. It also includes personal views of living and working with books.

Literary into Cultural Studies Antony Easthope, 2003-09-02 Modern Literary study was founded on an opposition between the canon and its other, popular culture. The theory wars of the 1970s and the 1980s, and in particular the advent of structuralist and post-structuralist theory, transformed this relationship. With the death of literature, the distinction between high and popular culture was no longer tenable, and the field of inquiry shifted from literary to cultural studies. Anthony Easthope argues that this new discipline must find a methodological consensus for its analysis of canonical and popular texts. Through a detailed criticism of competing theories—British cultural studies, New Historicism, cultural materialism—he shows how this new study should and should not be done. Easthope's exploration of the problems, possibilities, and politics of this new discipline includes an original reassessment of the question of literary value. By contrasting Conrad's Heart of Darkness with Burroughs's Tarzan of the Apes, Easthope demonstrates how textuality sustains the opposition between high and popular culture.

darkness Criticism and Culture Robert Con Davis, Ronald Schleifer, 1991 Critique and culture: the function of criticism, humanism and critique, the psychoanalytic critique of the subject, structuralism, semiotics, and the critique of language, deconstruction, post-structuralism, and the critique of philosophy, the critique of social relations, notes towards a definition of cultural studies.

Cultural Criticism, Literary Theory, Poststructuralism Vincent B. Leitch, 1992 Leitch argues for the use of poststructural theory in cultural criticism. He maintains that deconstruction remains crucial for a truly critical approach to cultural studies.
