First Words Paul Mandelbaum, 2013-06-17 This unique literary anthology presents the childhood writings of some of America s greatest authors including Stephen King Joyce Carol Oates and more Most kid write stories A few of them grow up to be successful authors Before Stephen King created Carrie he created Jhonathan at age nine And before there was Rabbit

Angstrom there was Manuel Citarro the detective in John Updike's hard-boiled mystery written at fourteen. Before Jurassic Park there was young Michael Crichton's story about the mysteriously wounded man lying unattended in the street. Editor Paul Mandelbaum persuaded our most popular American authors to share their childhood writings and their treasured photographs. What he's gathered is a fascinating, delightful collection of writing and early snapshots that reveal young minds at work wrestling with early versions of ideas that were to take hold of their writings in later years. Of course the young Madeline L. Engle would wonder about space and the meaning of eternity. Of course Margaret Atwood would question conventional female behavior, arguing for the right to smoke cigars. Other writers featured in this volume include Amy Tan, Paul Bowles, Michael Crichton, Ursula K. LeGuin, Tobias Wolff, and more.

You've Got to Read this Ron Hansen, Jim Shepard, 1994. An exciting new anthology of short fiction chosen by thirty-five of this country's most distinguished and popular fiction writers. You've Got to Read This offers readers an unusually intimate glimpse into how accomplished writers experience literature. Here are stories that inspired today's leading novelists and short story writers to embark on their own writing careers; stories that took their breath away and changed them or the way they responded to literature forever. Oscar Hijuelos confesses his debt to the great Argentine writer Jorge Luis Borges whose brilliant story "The Aleph" inspired him to become a writer himself. Mary Gordon stands in awe of what James Joyce wrought in "The Dead" and wonders how writers who come after him can equal it. Robert Coover writes movingly of Angela Carter and her mysterious story "Reflections" while Kenneth A. McClane says that "Sonny's Blues" by James Baldwin literally saved his life. Some of the stories presented here are classics like Anton Chekhov's "Gooseberries" introduced by Eudora Welty or Flannery O'Connor's A Good Man Is Hard to Find selected by Sue Miller. Some are less well known like Lars Gustafsson's Greatness Strikes Where It Pleases introduced by Charles Baxter or John Updike's Packed Dirt. Churchgoing, a Dying Cat, a Traded Car whose beauty stunned Lorrie Moore. All were critically important to some of our finest contemporary writers among them Annie Dillard, John Irving, Amy Tan, Louise Erdrich, Russell Banks, Jane Smiley, Bobbie Ann Mason, Tobias Wolff, and their comments about the selections offer fascinating entrances into the stories. For lovers of fiction, You've Got to Read This is a treasure trove, a dazzling collection of stories passionately and imaginatively chosen.

BOOK JACKET Title Summary field provided by Blackwell North America Inc. All Rights Reserved. A Person of Letters in the Contemporary World Richard Kostelanetz, 2013-09-01. Says the author: "I have been writing literary essays for nearly fifty years now. Since most of them appeared in modestly circulated periodicals, it becomes necessary for me to collect the most valuable of them into books. Earlier collections have been devoted to essays on poetry, fiction, visual art, music, culture, performance, and politics. Composed mostly of previously uncollected literary essays written over the past quarter century, A Person of Letters in the Contemporary World becomes the first to emphasize literature and literary life in general. Since I am a contemporary writer expanding my practice into the twenty-first century, it is scarcely surprising that my sense of literature as both a creator and a critic includes criticism of writing in new media such as audio and video. Most of the essays reflect the theme announced in the title, dealing as they do in various ways with the experience of being independent in the age of affiliation, a writer in more than one genre in an age of specialists, a radical among conservatives who has been consciously avant-garde at a time when innovation was proclaimed impossible, and a literary artist attuned to possibilities offered by new technologies. Since my activity reportedly reflects integrity at various levels, other recurring themes will, no doubt, become apparent. In my essays, as in my career, I've tried to go beyond, above, and sometimes below what others have done, especially in appreciating what others miss, dismissing what is commonly praised, and in telling truths about literary politics. Lacking power or a secure position, I wouldn't have survived had I attempted anything less. I've also learned that I've written not a single work commonly praised above all others, but many texts that one or another reader finds especially valuable."

Appraisements and Asperities as to Some Contemporary Writers Felix Emmanuel Schelling, 1922. The Writer's Journal Sheila Bender, 1997. Writers rarely share their unedited journals with others. On these most private of pages or on odd scraps of paper, they jot down bits and pieces of their lives and thoughts. This unique anthology presents excerpts from the journals of forty of today's most noted writers, and editor Sheila Bender asked the authors to comment on the role of journal-keeping in creating their art. As a guide to creating a journal of your own or simply as a riveting collection of never-before-published pieces from our finest contemporary talents, The Writer's Journal is a superb work, a classic on the creative process. No serious reader or writer should miss it.
