Contesting The Boundaries Of Liberal And Professional Education The Syracuse Experiment:

Contesting the Boundaries of Liberal and Professional Education Peter Marsh, 1988-06-01      Contesting the Boundaries of Liberal and Professional Education Peter Marsh, 1988-06      Reconstructing the “Uni-versity” Harvey J. Graff, 2025-09-14

Slogans, myths, and isolated anecdotes are inadequate substitutes for documented history and contextual understanding. Literature on the history of higher education is dominated by ahistorical and contextually ignorant slogans. Seldom acknowledged in discussions of the decline or failure of the modern university is 1) how long it has been going on at least since the 1960s and 2) universities' own complicity in this long, complicated, and contradictory process. Myths intertwine inseparably with slogans to echo yet another lost cause. Our collective as well as individual pasts provide essential lessons if we know how to read and learn from them. More complicated is imagining a plausible better future for universities. In Reconstructing the University: From the Ashes of the Mega and Multi University to the Futures of Higher Education, Harvey J. Graff, bringing experience from over 50 years as a professor, provides an accurate history of higher education, redefining the issues and terms to establish a new agenda.

Shaping the College Curriculum Lisa R. Lattuca, Joan S. Stark, 2011-01-11

Shaping the College Curriculum focuses on curriculum development as an important decision-making process in colleges and universities. The authors define curriculum as an academic plan developed in a historical, social, and political context. They identify eight curricular elements that are addressed intentionally or unintentionally in developing all college courses and programs. By exploring the interaction of these elements in context, they use the academic plan model to clarify the processes of course and program planning, enabling instructors and administrators to ask crucial questions about improving teaching and optimizing student learning. This revised edition continues to stress research-based educational practices. The new edition consolidates and focuses discussion of institutional and sociocultural factors that influence curricular decisions. All chapters have been updated with recent research findings relevant to curriculum leadership, accreditation, assessment, and the influence of academic fields, while two new chapters focus directly on learning research and its implications for instructional practice. A new chapter drawn from research on organizational change provides practical guidance to assist faculty members and administrators who are engaged in extensive program improvements. Streamlined yet still comprehensive and detailed, this revised volume will continue to serve as an invaluable resource for individuals and groups whose work includes planning, designing, delivering, evaluating, and studying curricula in higher education. This is an extraordinary book that offers not a particular curriculum or structure but a comprehensive approach for thinking about the curriculum, ensuring that important considerations are not overlooked in its revision or development and increasing the likelihood that students will learn and develop in ways institutions hope they will. The book brings coherence and intention to what is typically an unstructured, haphazard, and only partially rational process guided more by beliefs than by empirically grounded substantive information. Lattuca and Stark present their material in ways that are accessible and applicable across planning levels course program department and institution local settings and academic disciplines It s an admirable and informative marriage of scholarship and practice and an insightful guide to both Anyone who cares seriously about how we can make our colleges and universities more educationally effective should read this book Patrick T Terenzini distinguished professor and senior scientist Center for the Study of Higher Education The Pennsylvania State University

Disciplinary Styles in the Scholarship of Teaching and Learning Mary Taylor Huber, Sherwyn P. Morreale, 2023-07-21 Ten sets of disciplinary scholars respond to an orienting essay that raises questions about the history of discourse about teaching and learning in the disciplines the ways in which disciplinary styles influence inquiry into teaching and learning and the nature and roles of interdisciplinary exchange The authors hope to contribute to a common language for trading ideas enlarging our pedagogical imaginations and strengthening our scholarly work Disciplines represented chemistry communication studies engineering English studies history management sciences mathematics psychology and sociology A collaboration of The Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching and AAHE

Technological Issues in Broadcast Education Gerard Donnelly, Joseph R. Blaney Ph.D., 2003-10-30 The broadcasting industry s ongoing transition to digital technology raises significant questions for higher education ones relating to appropriate curriculum design the teacher student relationship legal issues media convergence and funding This new collection of essays offers guidance to faculty administrators and scholars alike offering innovative ideas on ways in which programs can excel in each area In so doing Technological Issues in Broadcast Education illuminates the educational settings that have been created and enhanced by the emergence of new broadcast related technologies as well as the impact of these technologies on the missions of broadcasting programs Subjects covered in the volume include the digital revolution curriculum revisions online learning gender considerations learning beyond the classroom and international models of broadcasting curricula At the same time that emphasis is placed on the challenges posed by new technologies careful attention is given to the importance of educators continuing to emphasize the traditional academic skills of writing interpersonal communication and analysis In this way editors Jerry Donnelly and Joseph R Blaney offer offers a unique roadmap to educators charged with shaping broadcasting programs in light of new technology

Business as a Humanity Thomas Donaldson, R. Edward Freeman, 1994 This volume contains contributions to the annual Ruffin Lecture series in which researchers in business ethics addressed the question can business and business education be considered one of the humanities or is it in a class by itself

Educating Professionals Lynn Curry, Jon F. Wergin, 1993-05-06 This in depth examination of how to educate professionals for the future identifies the social and political forces that will affect the roles of professionals and change the definitions of professional skill It shows how educating professionals for the twenty first century will ultimately require stronger bonds between educational systems and our systems of practice including more accurate measures of competence and a more integrated system of continuing professional education

Education and Democracy Robert Orrill,1997 Liberal education has long been associated with a focus on so called great books drawn largely from the European past In sharp contrast this collection of essays explores the theory and practice of contemporary liberal education from the perspective of a distinctively American pragmatic tradition The result is a reimagined liberal education adapted to the needs of American democracy in the twenty first century

Handbook of the Undergraduate Curriculum Jerry G. Gaff,James L. Ratcliff,1997 This volume offers a compendium of the best ideas analyses and practices relating to the undergraduate curriculum as described by leading figures in the field It contains both conceptual and practical information on effective practices research management and assessment In thirty four original chapters top practitioners and scholars detail a range of philosophies frameworks program designs instructional strategies and assessment methods being used to strengthen and transform the curriculum They examine both the current state of knowledge and teaching in the disciplines and the forces that will reshape the curriculum in the coming years The Handbook of Undergraduate Curriculum will prove valuable both to practitioners as an operating manual or desk reference and to faculty as a primary text for graduate courses on the curriculum In addition the book will be a useful tool for those serving on a general education curriculum committee or conducting a departmental review of a major program as well as having numerous other practical applications for anyone with responsibility for or interest in the curriculum

Of Media and People Everette E. Dennis,1992-08-24 In Of Media and People Everette Dennis explores the crowded media marketplace gives an insider's view of the people who work there and informs us of the quasi public servant role they play He examines the fragile relationship between media and people a dynamic most often represented in areas like global news media studies election races conflicts and crises and media industries As executive director of a prestigious media center Dennis is privileged to analyze these media people relationships on a first hand basis through the prism of institutional life where links between media and education business labor and the military are under great scrutiny Finally the author critiques the recent trend in communications that would merge all media into a single electronically based computer driven system With this overview of the present state of the media Dennis provides professionals scholars and students of communications journalism sociology technology and popular culture with a lucid discussion of media's future
