Continuing To Think The British Asian Girl:

Continuing to Think : the British Asian Girl Barrie Wade, Pamela Souter, 1992-01-01 Many British Asian girls are well motivated intelligent students who wish to continue their education to reach satisfying careers Others despite the specialist language instruction they have received in their early school years remain lacking in confidence and enthusiasm for education their contributions being characterized either by low self esteem or by low competence in English or by both of these

South Asian Diaspora in U.K. Pramod Kumar Mishra, 2001 South Asian Women and Employment in Britain Fauzia Ahmad, Tariq Modood, Steve Lissenburgh, 2003 This text examines family employment and educational histories experiences of views about and attitudes towards work and study domestic roles and family life views on marriage and identity and asks key questions about motivations

Bilingualism, Education and Identity Bob Morris Jones, Paul Avtar Singh Ghuman, 1995 This volume analyses and discusses various facets of bilingualism from an international perspective The topics covered include the relationship of bilingualism and intelligence the social and geographical bases of bilingualism acculturation and lexical development But it is the field of bilingual education which supplies the main area of interest with papers on school systems in Wales Australia and Nigeria the discussions here examine linguistic aspects of curricular design language teaching methodology and assessment

Journal of Asian Pacific Communication , 1995 The Australian Journal of Education , 2001 Called Unto Liberty! Colin H. Williams, 1994 This book examines the implications of language related conflict and of nationalist mobilisation and analyses the appeal of national liberty for people whose national culture is itself challenged by structural and political changes in the global economy

Multilingualism and Nation Building Gerda Mansour, 1993 The immediate concern of Multilingualism and Nation Building is to relate the phenomenon of multilingualism in West Africa to its historical social and physical environment and to trace the development of the sociolinguistic situation from the Middle Ages to the colonial and post colonial period At a deeper theoretical level the author attempts to show how the two types of communication monolingual and multilingual were associated with specific social formations in the course of socio historical evolution This perspective leads to a new evaluation of current sociolinguistic phenomena in independent African nations and examines their approach to the question of what role their native languages should play in national life While concrete answers to this question have to be left to policy makers it is the aim of this book to inquire into the linguistic social and political issues which result in a variety of possible solutions So far the decision to maintain a non native official language and to exclude native languages from the public domain has been the preferred option in many newly independent countries The author therefore analyses concrete examples of the two basic models of nation building the assimilationist or monolingual and the pluralist model and the conditions which made each of these solutions successful What really is at stake is the fundamental question what type of language policy for what type of nation

New Books on Women and Feminism , 1993 Three Generations, Two Languages, One Family Li Wei, 1994 In this first book length study of the Chinese community in Britain Dr Li Wei provides a detailed ethnography of communication in ten Chinese immigrant families in the North East of England He focuses on generational changes in language choice preferences and code switching strategies Muslim Education Quarterly ,1995 Child-rearing in Ethnic Minorities Jagjit Singh Dosanjh,Paul Avtar Singh Ghuman,1996 The book explores the child rearing practices of an ethnic minority group Punjabis living in Britain and North America Containing interviews with two generations of mothers those of the 1990s and 1970s this book reveals insights and attitudes that are also relevant for understanding other ethnic minority groups

Foundations of Bilingual Education and Bilingualism Colin Baker,1993 A foundational textbook for both students and teachers this book provides a comprehensive introduction to bilingualism and bilingual education Moving on Up Yasmin Hussain,Paul Bagguley,2007 South Asian women are narrowing the gender gap and Pakistani and Bangladeshi origin women are catching up with Indian women in their uptake of higher education This title explores how they balance their education with plans for marriage and their experiences of racism and Islamophobia at university and elsewhere The Step-tongue Anthea Fraser Gupta,1994 In Singapore multilingualism is the norm and English often the local variety is widely acquired and used This book examines the social and historical context of children s English in Singapore and traces the development of four Singaporean children who have English as a native language The implications for education and speech therapy are discussed Writing Diaspora Yasmin Hussain,2005 In this book Yasmin Hussain uses ideas of cultural hybridity diaspora and identity to explore cultural production by British South Asian women including Monica Ali Meera Syal and Gurinder Chadha Hussain provides a sociological analysis of the contexts and experiences of the British South Asian community discussing key concerns that emerge within the work of this new generation of women writers and which express more widespread debates within the community In particular these authors address issues of individual and group identity and the ways in which these are affected by ethnicity and gender "Home and Away" Scott Fleming,1995 A sociological study of the place of sport in the culture of South Asian young males in a North London school Sport participation was found to be affected by the personal racism that influenced the daily experiences of all the young South Asians Other social factors were less important Mission Incomprehensible Roy D. Ingleton,1994 This book examines the policing and criminal justice systems which exist in the European Community and how the multiplicity of languages affects these at senior level It examines the degree of awareness of these problems which currently exist in the various police forces and reviews the steps taken to overcome or alleviate the difficulties Periodica Islamica ,1992 The Role of Higher Education in Providing Opportunities for South Asian Women Paul Bagguley,Yasmin Hussain,2007 Although South Asian women are one of the most socially excluded groups in the UK their numbers at university have increased rapidly in recent years This report seeks to understand why they are entering university in larger numbers and the impact of this on their lives The role of higher education in providing opportunities for South Asian women explores the experiences of Bangladeshi Indian and Pakistani women at university It considers the role of families in shaping choices about local universities and which A levels and degree subjects to study how community expectations about marriage interact with plans for university the financial strategies of South Asian women students for funding their education experiences of racism and Islamophobia inside and outside education and the diversity of the experiences of education among South Asian women in terms of class ethnicity and religion The report is aimed at policy communities and academics with an interest in education ethnicity and gender It contains new findings relevant to diversity equality and widening participation in universities
